Reorganization Plan Would Add 97 Men

... MORRISON, WELCH BEGIN STUDY

—ANTI-BIAS REGULATIONS—
Seizure Faces Segregationists

Washington (UPI) — The federal government may seize and operate low rent housing projects which violate contract clauses requiring them to observe President Kennedy's order prohibiting discrimination in federally-assisted housing.

This possibility was acknowledged publicly at a press conference Tuesday as the government released regulations applying the anti-bias order to federal urban renewal, public housing and community facilities programs.

The new conference was held by officials of the Housing and Home Finance Agency and its other units, including the Urban Renewal Administration and the Public Housing Administration.

Of 100,000 low rent public housing units authorized by Congress in 1961, roughly 70,000 will come under the executive order, the Public Housing Administration estimated. It said some 1,300 communities have, or plan, federally subsidized low rent housing.

It was also disclosed that cities will be required to attach to urban renewal project land sold to private parties a covenant in perpetuity prohibiting discriminatory sale or use of the property.

Discrimination also will be prohibited in shops and service facilities within urban renewal projects, it was said. For example, a luncheonette would have to serve all residents of the project, a bowling alley would have to be open to all.

Do Not Apply

These and other regulations announced Tuesday do not apply to public housing and urban renewal projects for which final contracts were signed by local and federal authorities on or before Nov. 20, the day Kennedy issued the executive order.

But there was a hint that federal authorities would do what they could to eliminate discrimination in such projects. Robert C. Weaver, the U.S. housing administrator, observed that there are "continuing relationships" between federal and local housing authorities.

The implication appeared to be that applications for future federal subsidies would be looked on more favorably if existing projects are open to all qualified tenants and buyers regardless of race, religion or national background.

Want Compliance

Weaver emphasized that he is more interested in securing compliance with the order and ending discrimination than in involving its sanctions. Persons and public authorities who violate the order can be barred from future participation in federal housing programs.

Joseph Burstein, general counsel of the Public Housing Administration, said that agency could take possession or operating control of low rent projects which discriminate in violation of clauses in their federal subsidy contracts. Such clauses are not part of contracts signed before Nov. 21.

Burstein said that once public housing subsidy contracts were in force, his agency would respect the "sanctity" of bonds floated by local authorities to finance construction. In other words, annual subsidy payments to amortize the bonds will be made, he indicated.

William L. Slayton, commissioner of the Urban Renewal Administration, said his agency could withhold subsidy payments if a local project is found to be in violation of the executive order. But because the subsidy funds are advanced in stages as loans, this appeared to be of limited significance.

Big 8, Regents Okay Husker Bowl Effort

Nebraska's Cornhuskers will go a-bowling in New York. The Big 8 and the University of Nebraska Regents Tuesday approved NU participation in the Gotham Bowl Dec. 15.

The Nebraska football team already had given unanimous and enthusiastic approval in a meeting Tuesday noon. They will face Miami of Florida.

Dean Charles Miller went to work immediately in an effort to get a decision from the Big 8 faculty representatives, who already had okayed Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl and Missouri in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

And Gov. Morrison, who started all the hubbub Tuesday morning, announced he was happy the Huskers wanted to go.

Misguided Rocket Hits Automobile

Orlando, Fla. (AP) — The mystery of the misguided missile remained a mystery Tuesday.

The State Highway Patrol said it had learned nothing about the source of a small rocket which crashed into a car on U.S. 50 west of Orlando Sunday.

Sgt. Jack Walden said the missile, about two feet long, same down through the edge of the roof of a car driven by Harold Chapman, 22-year-old junior high school basketball coach from Orlando. It buried itself in the interior of the door.

The missile missed Chapman's head by about a foot, Walden said. Chapman was sprayed by broken glass but wasn't hurt.

Sgt. T. R. Cartwright of the bomb disposal squad at McCoy Air Force Base said the rocket had been built "by someone who knew what they were doing." He said it could have been fired from 10 to 15 miles away.

Explosions, Fire Hit N.Y. Building

New York (AP) — Three major explosions and at least 40 smaller bursts rocked the upper floors of a massive 42-story office building at Broadway and 39th Street Tuesday night, as a fire roared through the structure, lighting up the sky in the Times Square area.

Fire companies headed into the blazing building from all directions, and the 3-alarm fire was declared under control about a half hour after it started. No injuries were reported.

Morrison Reappoints Hossack And Morris

Gov. Frank Morrison Tuesday announced the reappointment of State Engineer John Hossack and State Institutions Director George Morris to serve in the second term of his administration beginning in January.

Morrison, critical of a report published Tuesday afternoon that "Statehouse sources" were surprised because some appointments had not yet been announced, declared, "There is no such thing as informed sources in the Statehouse."

"Anything the governor has to say he says himself. Nobody is authorized to speak for him. If there is someone authorized to do so, I'll announce it," he continued.

Morrison, Hossack, and Morris.

Morrison described Hossack and Morris as both having accomplished "outstanding jobs" during the first year of his administration.

Never Any Question

"There has never been any question in my mind about their reappointments," the governor said.

Hossack was named acting state engineer under the administration of the late Gov. Ralph G. Brooks, and was given full status in the post by Morrison early in his administration.

Morris, a Republican, first served in Morrison's administration as state purchasing agent, and was named as director of institutions when the new State Department of Public Institutions became operative Jan. 1 under a law passed by the 1961 Legislature.

The governor has been announcing the appointments of department heads for his second term on a two-by-two basis — and the total number named thus far is now 8.

Algerian Units Smash Menacing Insurgents

Algiers (AP) — Premier Ahmed Ben Bella announced Tuesday his troops have smashed armed insurgent bands menacing his young government in wide areas of Algeria.

Tense and grim, Ben Bella made the disclosure before 190 members of the national assembly. Sobered by the growing economic chaos in Algeria, the lawmakers sat silent at this report of armed opposition.

Ben Bella did not identify the insurgent bands, nor did he mention the Communist Party, sworn to resist his rule since he banned it from all activity.

The bands are believed to have been organized by guerrillas who fought the long war against France and resented the arrival of Ben Bella and his armed forces from exile in neighboring Tunisia and Morocco with independence last summer. Some deserters from Ben Bella's army also may have been involved.

Ben Bella said military and police operations were conducted from east to west in the Constantine, Algiers, Tiarret, Oran and Mostaghem regions.

"Bands were dismantled and ringleaders were arrested," Ben Bella said.

His statement for the first time showed the extent of organized opposition in newly independent Algeria, plagued by administrative chaos and economic stagnation.

Park made the announcement through a spokesman who delivered it over Seoul radio.

The announcement said, however, that South Korea's military courts will continue to try those who violate junta decrees and other special laws enacted during the country's past 18 months of military rule.

KOREA TO END MARTIAL LAW

Soul, Korea (UPI) — Gen. Park Chung Hee, chairman of the ruling military junta, announced Wednesday that martial law will be lifted at midnight in preparation for South Korea's return to civil government.

Park made the announcement through a spokesman who delivered it over Seoul radio.

The announcement said, however, that South Korea's military courts will continue to try those who violate junta decrees and other special laws enacted during the country's past 18 months of military rule.

Morrison said, "the commanders of the organization of the Nebraska ARNG will be briefed and their contributions added to the study and I will be briefed again on Friday of this week by the general."

He added that Welch will attend a meeting at the Pentagon next Monday "at which time he will present my position with regard to this proposal so that we can comply with the secretary of the army's request that he have word from me by the 10th of December.

"I intend to reserve my final judgment regarding the troop basis of Nebraska ARNG until I receive the appraisal of the Advisory Committee on the National Guard of the U.S. Conference of Governors. This action is in accord with the resolution which was unanimously passed at the Governors' Conference held in Hershey, Pa. on July 3, 1962," Morrison concluded.

Reveal Shifts In Guard, Reserve

Washington (AP) — The long-expected overhaul of the Army Reserve and National Guard, announced Tuesday by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, is aimed at gearing them to leap more quickly and in fighting trim to the aid of the regular forces.

"The increase in combat readiness will be achieved by reassigning men from low priority units to high priority units, by increasing the equipment available to the high priority units for training and by increasing the number of instructors and trainers assigned to these units."

What McNamara wants to do is drop 4 Reserve and 4 National Guard divisions

STATE'S RESERVE CHANGES LISTED

along with a net of 731 smaller Guard and Reserve units made obsolete by technical and tactical progress.

Not a Cut

However, this will not mean a cut in the currently authorized 700,000-man Guard-Reserve strength. Most of the men in the units wiped out will be taken into 11 new brigades and supporting units or will help beef up 6 first priority National Guard divisions.

The goal is to have them form a force trained and ready to join the Army's 16 regular divisions within 8 weeks after a call to active duty.

The remaining, low-priority divisions — 17 Guard and 6 Reserve — will be kept at about 50% strength.

McNamara ordered the 4 Reserve divisions and 393 lesser Reserve units eliminated immediately — an action he can take because the Reserve is completely under federal control.

But he had to move more slowly on the Guard overhaul.

The Pentagon notified the various governors of the plan to eliminate the 4 divisions and 338 lesser units and appealed for their cooperation. The law provides that a governor must approve any change in the Guard within his state.

There have been stiff protests from some states over plans to eliminate Guard units. But the outcries seem to have lessened since the plan was first unveiled 8 months ago, both in the states and in Congress.

Campaign

The Pentagon has carried on a vigorous campaign of persuasion, arguing that the changes are necessary to modernize the Army.

The aim is to complete the reorganization, the first drastic one in 5 years, before the guardsmen and reservists go to training camps next summer. Whether this can be accomplished with the Guard will depend mainly on how much opposition is met from the governors.

Secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance said a letter has been delivered to the adjutant general of each state for relay to the governor. Maj. Gen. Donald McGowan, chief of the National Guard Bureau, called a meeting of the state adjutants general next Monday to talk over the proposal.

Shortly after McNamara's announcement, Gov. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, urged all the governors to withhold any approval of the plan until a special committee meets as soon as possible after next Monday's briefing at the Pentagon.

Rosellini added that he will oppose the changes proposed for his own state.

Veterinarians Gather For Annual Meeting

By GLENN KREUSCHER

Farm Editor

Nebraska veterinarians begin their 66th annual 3-day convention here Wednesday. The nearly 300 members of the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association represent the state's third largest health profession.

The annual convention is described by veterinarians as the "annual winter school" and during the sessions discussion will cover an expanding field of animal health problems.

Opening sessions Wednesday afternoon will be conducted by Drs. Don Walker of Auburn University; John R. Annis of Purdue University and V. A. Stauffer of Arvada, Colo.

A new version for the annual veterinarian meet will be a "Grill the Guest" program Thursday where the animal physicians will meet in discussion periods with guest speakers for informal questions and exchange of problems.

Bob Garey of Hastings, executive secretary, explained the annual convention serves as a professional clearing house for many ideas and new practices individual members of the association develop during the year.

While United States and Canada now have 23,551 veterinarians the American Veterinary Medical Association has estimated that North America will need 47,250 members by 1980. The average veterinarian is responsible for the health of about 18,000 animals, according to the AVMA.

Soviet Will Sign 1963 German Peace Treaty, Warsaw Says

Western Rights To Be Preserved

... Red Sources Say
BY EDWARD SHIELDS

Warsaw (UPI) — The Soviet Union will sign a German peace treaty next year, but the West will be able to keep its garrisons in Berlin, communist sources said Tuesday.

Western rights of access and stationing of troops in West Berlin no longer will be based on occupation rights, but on a negotiated annex to the peace treaty, these sources said.

Their interpretation of coming events in Berlin was closely in accord with East German hints, published late last week, that Western withdrawal from Berlin no longer was a fundamental condition of a Berlin settlement.

No Public Reassurance
So far, there have been no public official statements here suggesting Western rights in Berlin could be preserved.

But Polish communist leaders have been referring in public only to a peace treaty with "both German states" rather than threatening a treaty with communist East Germany which would end Western rights in Berlin.

Communist chief Wladyslaw Gomulka, in his St. Barbara's Day speech to Polish miners, called for an end to the "occupation status" of Berlin, rather than for the withdrawal of the "occupation regimes" there.

The Soviet Union would make only one major condition in negotiating a Berlin agreement with the West, these highly informed sources said.

The condition would be that no West German army troops have access to West Berlin or be stationed in the city.

Never An Allied Goal
Since the stationing of West German units in Berlin never has been an allied aim, Western diplomats here considered the issue might be one that would be artificially created by the Soviets for bargaining purposes.

The Polish version of 1963 developments in Berlin would leave virtually untouched the 3 basic points of the Western position — allied garrisons in the city, free access to the city for Western forces and the freedom of West Berlin itself, these sources claimed.

Little Girl Is Raped, Slain In New York

New York (UPI) — A sadistic killer Tuesday lured a 9-year-old girl to the top of an apartment building, raped her, then carried her nude body to the roof and hurled her to her death in a courtyard 14 stories below.

One of the tenants of the apartment house watched the girl's body hurtle downward and strike the concrete.

"You couldn't believe it... it was too horrible," said the tenant, Mrs. Mattie Arnold.

The victim was Lourdes Bass. Her blue jumper and white blouse were found in the hallway of the 13th floor. Only her shoes and stockings were still on her body.

Police said a prime suspect was a teen-age boy that another girl said had attempted to entice her to accompany him to the top of the apartment house, one of a number in a housing project in the Williamsburg Section of Brooklyn.

Detectives said evidence at the scene indicated the girl had put up a desperate struggle with her attacker.

The girl lived on the eighth floor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Bass, and 7 brothers and sisters. She had come home from school for lunch.

Red China Agrees To Loan For Laos

Tokyo (AP) — Communist China has agreed to extend a long-term loan to Laos for industrial projects, a Red Chinese broadcast said Tuesday night. The New China news agency broadcast said the announcement was made in a communique marking the visit to Peking of Vice Premier Phoumi Nosavan, right-wing member of the Laotian coalition government.

Details of the loan were not disclosed. The communique said, however, Red China will furnish Laos with technical aid and equipment for the projects.

Policeman Leads Six To Freedom

... In West Berlin

Berlin (UPI) — An East German policeman guided his wife, baby, mother-in-law and 3 other refugees into West Berlin through barbed-wire barricades he knew as a guard, West Berlin police reported Tuesday.

The 22-year-old policeman was off duty and used his knowledge of the sector and communist patrol duties to lead the refugee expedition into the French sector in the north of Berlin without incident, the police said.

The group escaped in freezing temperatures. The guard cut through the wire, unnoticed by the communist border patrols and there was no shooting.

Fleeing with the guard were his 18-year-old wife and 10-month-old daughter, his 52-year-old mother-in-law, two women aged 21 and 25 and a 22-year-old man. Their identification was withheld.

West Berlin police said the guard wore civilian clothes.

Youth Held On Charge Of Threat Against Kennedy

Birmingham, la. (AP) — Secret Service agents arrested a 20-year-old Birmingham resident on a charge that he threatened the life of President Kennedy in a letter.

The youth was identified as James B. Hubka.

In a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Louise O. Charlton, Hubka said he wrote the letter. He was held under $25,000 bond.

The agents said the letter was sent to J. Walter Yagley of the Internal Security Division of the Department of Justice.

The youth, who said his letter was a "mockery of all law," admitted he knew he shouldn't have done it — "it was a terrible thing."

If convicted, Hubka could be fined $1,000 or sent to prison for 5 years, or both.

They're Going Back To Volcano-Ravaged Isle

... Leaving Britain After 148-5 Secret Vote

London (AP) — "On our island," said the leader of the Tristan da Cunha refugees "if you don't want to get up in the morning — you stay in bed."

It was for this and other reasons, Willie Repetto explained, that he and the other adults from the tiny, volcano-ravaged island in the south Atlantic voted 148 to 5 to return home.

Commenting on the decision, columnist Cassandra (William Connor) said in the Daily Mirror: "It is the most eloquent and contemptuous rebuff that our smug and deviously contrived society could have received."

The islanders were rescued from Tristan da Cunha when the volcano erupted last year. They were brought to Britain and resettled in an old Royal Air Force base on the English Channel. Many begged to be sent back.

Elderly Doctor Pleads Innocent To Manslaughter

Cleveland, Ohio (UPI) — An elderly doctor in whose suburban office two women patients died within the past 3 weeks was charged with first degree manslaughter Tuesday.

Dr. Arthur Laird, 75, Cleveland Heights, was charged specifically with the death of Mrs. Joan Dileo, a 25-year-old mother of 3, who died in his office Monday after receiving an injection of xylocaine and pontacaine during a plastic surgery operation.

Dr. Laird pleaded innocent in Cleveland Heights municipal court late Tuesday and was bound over under $25,000 bond. He was returned to jail when he failed to post bond. The case was continued until Dec. 19.

Authorities said a second woman, Mrs. Virginia Stewart, 49, died in Laird's office Nov. 15 after being given an injection of xylocaine.

Gaffney said a 12-man team has not completed its investigation. He said Laird gave a statement in the death of Mrs. Dileo, but declined to reveal the details.

Although no final ruling has been given in the death of Mrs. Stewart, first reports indicated she died of an allergic reaction to the anesthetic.

France Balking

Refuses, Like Russ, To Make U.N. Payments

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — France lined up with the Soviet Union Tuesday in rejecting a World Court opinion that all U.N. members should pay for peace-keeping operations threatening the organization with bankruptcy.

U.S. sources expressed disappointment and regret over the stand taken by Andre Ganem, the French delegate, in the Assembly's 110-nation Budgetary Committee. Ganem restated also French refusal to pay any part of the $10-million-a-month U.N. Congo effort.

U.S. and Britain Press
Both the United States and Britain are pressing for adoption of a resolution affirming the court's advisory opinion that peace-keeping operations in the Congo and Middle East are expenses which the U.N. Charter says must be shared by all.

But Ganem said he was under instructions to inform the committee that the de Gaulle government cannot go along with its Western allies on the issue.

He said his government cannot accept World Court jurisdiction in interpreting the U.N. Charter, and that his government will not accept any obligations except those ordered by the Security Council. The same view was expressed earlier to the committee by the Soviet Union.

'62 Budget Deficit $6,377,674,507.96

Washington (AP) — Final figures on the fiscal 1962 budget, reported by the Treasury Tuesday, showed the deficit for the year ending June 30 was $6,377,674,507.96.

This was $70 million higher than the tentative, rounded figure of $6,308,000,000 issued on July 20.

The revisions increased by $49 million the government's receipts, for a total of $81,409,092,072.55.

They increased government outlays by $119 million, for a total of $87,786,766,580.51.

Tito And K. Embrace Warmly

Past Differences Appear Forgotten

Moscow (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia rolled into Moscow Tuesday for a chummy round of talks with his old political foe, Nikita Khrushchev. He found living quarters in the Kremlin among honors awaiting him.

The two communist leaders, past differences apparently forgotten, embraced warmly as the 70-year-old Yugoslav spryly hopped off his special train.

The Soviet premier, bundled up against Moscow's frigid temperatures, organized a special red carpet reception for the independent Yugoslav communist and his wife Jovanka at the Kiev railroad station in Moscow.

A guard of honor stood rigidly to attention and Khrushchev and Tito doffed their fur hats as a military band struck up the Yugoslav and Soviet national anthems.

Although Tito's visit is a private affair — a vacation at Khrushchev's invitation — the Soviet premier made it clear that the two would engage in serious talks.

Khrushchev said that he wants to extend Soviet economic, cultural and scientific ties with "Socialist Yugoslavia." He emphasized — obviously for the benefit of his communist allies — that "this would be in the interests of all socialist countries."

Tricky Pen Escapees Still Sought By Police

Two youthful inmates of the State Penitentiary remained at large early Wednesday after using forged orders to join a work detail as it went outside the prison walls.

Escapees William R. O'Kelly, 22, of Denver, and Larry Edward Dye, 21, of Council Bluffs, were termed "dangerous" by prison officials, who warned that no one but law enforcement officials should try to apprehend the pair.

After the pair's escape was publicized, local lawmen began receiving numerous phone calls from people who claimed they had seen the two men at different locations. Each tip was checked out but yielded nothing.

Then, shortly after 8:30 p.m., Robert Van Winkle of 706 West C and a girl friend were driving east on A and spotted two men on the Union Pacific railroad tracks at 4th and A.

'Coming Down Tracks'

Van Winkle explained later: "They were coming down the tracks from the south and they stopped and waited for us to cross. Both of them still had on prison uniforms and were wearing white gloves."

Lawmen converged on the area immediately. Officers observed two men around 6th and C and the pair took off running through an alley between 6th and 7th, B and C. One of the two was then spotted at 7th and B, but got away.

Saturating the area with more than a dozen city officers, 4 sheriff's deputies, two police dogs, and two carloads of guards from the Penitentiary, the lawmen combed the area but were unable to turn up the two men again.

Police Chief Joseph Carroll explained: "We don't even know if it was really them, but we couldn't afford to pass up any chance."

'Almost Positive'

Van Winkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus A. Van Winkle, said afterward:

"I'm almost positive they were the ones. I work at the Yankee Hill brickyard and we have a lot of guys (trusties) coming from either the Reformatory or the Penitentiary getting bricks off and on, and I know what their uniforms look like."

The slick trick pulled by the two close custody prisoners — neither of whom was allowed outside the walls — involved work detail passes with pictures and descriptions of both men.

The forged documents were somehow placed with the genuine work orders handled by officers at the sally port (back entrance) of the prison where some 600 inmates are passed outside the walls to work assignments each morning.

'Blame At Top'

Warden Maurice Sigler explained that the "blame must be assumed by the top echelon of administration" because guards and gate officers were "following correct procedure" in letting the men join the work detail.

After joining the 12-man detail, the pair evidently slipped away when the guard assigned to the group was not watching them.

Sigler said an investigation of the forgery methods used would be made. He added that entire work detail pass procedure was immediately changed and "tightened up" to preclude any further use of the "forgery to freedom" method.

Both Burglars

Both escapees were serving terms for burglary. Dye was sentenced last month to 4 years by a Lancaster District Court, and O'Kelly was serving a 6-year burglary term handed down in Seward County in May 1961.

Both men were described as weighing about 135 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes. Dye is 5 feet, 11 inches tall, and O'Kelly 5 feet, 9 inches.

The forged passes, Sigler said, contained pictures and descriptions of the pair and were "signed" by Deputy Warden John Greenholtz.

Cold Weather Will Continue On Wednesday

Nebraska's cold weather is expected to continue at least through Wednesday, the Weather Bureau reported.

A large expanding high pressure cell over Idaho and northwest Utah Tuesday was expected to be centered over southeast Colorado by sometime Wednesday.

This would cause continued movement of chilly air into the Nebraska area, causing highs to be mostly in the 40s. Skies are to be fair over most of the state.

Lincoln Air Force Base and Columbus shared the state high temperature of 47 Tuesday; Scottsbluff and Sidney reported the low of 20. Lincoln had 46 and 40.

CD Men, Law Looking For Lurking Siren Wolf

The prankster who is calling "wolf, wolf" nightly on the city's Civil Defense sirens is the object of an intensive search by beary-eyed CD officials and the law.

City-County CD Director Richard Vesteka announced he has called in Federal Communications Commission detection equipment in an attempt to stop the midnight prankster from setting Lincolnites' hair on end by touching off the wailing sirens in varied sectors of the city.

The tracking equipment is available at Kansas City FCC offices.

Bargain Sleep

Vesteka Tuesday asked county commissioners to offer a $100 reward for information leading to the apprehension of the persons responsible, commenting that "$100 is a bargain price to pay for a good night's sleep for 50,000 Lincolmites."

He noted that intentional interference with the CD alerting system carries a federal penalty of up to $10,000 fine and/or one year in prison, plus lesser penalties under local laws.

The past 5 weeks have brought 6 incidents involving sounding of the city's alerting sirens.

Tuesday's announcement by Vesteka was the first that ruled out accidental causes for the occurrences. CD officials were roused for 3 nights in a row to stop the errant sirens and calm irate citizens shocked by the alert.

Police were watching for the prankster in the Belmont area but were foiled when sirens in southern portions of the city were sounded Monday night.

Officials said that it is probably the work of someone with a low-powered transmitter in his car. A powerful transmitter, would probably sound all of the city's sirens.

Two of the sirens sounding at midnight Monday were among the 13 on which the code triggering the siren had been changed the same day.

Robert Gerle gave Lincoln Symphony Orchestra patrons a double treat by playing not one but two violin works of major proportions Tuesday evening.

Appearing with the orchestra, he gave a technically flawless performance of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto in E Minor that was noticeable for its tonal beauty and fresh approach to a standard and much-played concerto.

Mr. Gerle's virtuosity as well as his extraordinary understanding of the temperament of the Hungarian style were apparent in Ravel's "Tzigane."

Truly Inspiring

Both works were given a truly inspiring performance by one of the most brilliant young violinists of this generation.

The soloist was playing the famous Hubay Stradivarius which at one time belonged to another great violin virtuoso—Paganini.

The Lincoln Symphony itself was making its first appearance of its 36th season. Opening with Peter Warlock's "Capriol Suite" which displayed to advantage the added depth of the string section, Conductor Leo Kopp had selected a program of unusual pieces.

Difficult, Intricate

"Song of the Nightingale" by Stravinsky was perhaps the most difficult with its fascinating effects and changing rhythms. The piece is quite transparent harmonically and intricate from the structural point of view.

Mr. Kopp's description of the thematic material before the performance was very appropriate and added to the enjoyment of the work.

Again Mr. Kopp's prodigious memory was evident as he conducted this difficult score as well as the rest of the program without music.

The fine performance by the orchestra and soloist and the enthusiasm of the audience portend an excellent season for Lincoln Symphony concertgoers.

TOTS' SANTA LETTERS BRING SORROW, SMILES

By JOE SCHROEDER

New York (P)—Do children lose faith in Santa Claus when Santa doesn't bring them any gifts?

Among more than 1,600 letters already received by the New York Post Office, en route to Kris Kringle, was this one:

"Hope you help me this year.

"I wrote you last year, but you didn't come.

"I like you to give my brother something because he was sick. I want to make him happy.

"Father is out of work so we have no money for gifts. "God bless you."

The letter was signed Anna. The Post Office doesn't know Anna's address or anything about her.

As usual, postal workers taking a peek at Santa's mail were amazed, amused — and very often confused.

One letter signed Celia said:

"Dear Santa Clause (sic): Please tell the doctor to fix my mother's nose so we can get a puppy for Xmas."

A boy named Kevin asked, "Will you send me a letter, because I haven't heard from you in a long time?"

From Connie Marie came this epistle, spellings all her own:

"Dear Santa: I am this many years old. I I I I I. I am from Detroit, Mich. I want a baby sister or brother for Christmas if I could. My mother said the hospital is all sold out. So I thought maby you could find me one if I wrote early."

Many letters came from other countries. One lad in Venezuela evidently figures old Santa is up to date. After citing a long list of his desires he added: "I hope this isn't too much for you to bring in your helicopter.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR SAVES LIFE

Houston (P)—Police credit a telephone operator with saving the life of a 19-year-old girl who took 36 sleeping pills.

"I'm going to kill myself," the girl told Mrs. Fay Weathered, night chief telephone operator, after dialing "Operator" from her home.

Mrs. Weathered said she realized her task was to learn the name and address before the girl slumped into unconsciousness or the call could not be traced.

She talked to the girl 1½ hours and finally obtained sufficient information to send police and an ambulance to the West University Place home.

When police arrived, they found the girl near death. The telephone receiver was next to her ear. Mrs. Weathered still was talking.

At Methodist Hospital attendants pumped the girl's stomach. She later was released in good condition.

Howard Cook, 54, and his wife listen as his attorney pleaded Tuesday to the State Board of Probation and Parole at Charleston, W. Va., for an unconditional pardon for Cook. He fled from a West Virginia road gang 19 years ago while serving 30 years for the 1931 bank robbery. The pardon was granted several hours after Tuesday's hearing. Cook will return to Kingstown, Wash., where he has been a logging contractor.

Casey, War Correspondent And Newsman, Dies At 72

Chicago (P)—Robert J. Casey, a famed newspaperman, war correspondent and author, died Tuesday at the age of 72. He had been in failing health for several months.

Casey, a top reporter for 26 years, was the author of 35 books, the first of which "The Cannoneers Have Hairy Ears," was considered one of the most graphic war diaries to come out of World War I.

In 1930, Casey sailed from Tahiti in a native schooner to Manga Reva, Pitcairn and Easter Islands, a trip of 3,000 miles. Out of the trip, Casey wrote "Easter Island," the story of desolate island cluttered with huge head stones. Another Casey book, "I Can't Forget," was written after 22 months on the battle fronts in the World War II.

Many of his novels were detective and adventure stories, a field in which he was considered a highly skilled craftsman.

However, the two volumes which earned plaudits from his fellow newspapermen were, "Such Interesting People," and "More Interesting People." These works were anecdotal accounts of Chicago newsmen and their exploits from 1910 onward.

Bremser Heads NBC Affiliates

New York (UPI) — Lyell Bremser, vice president and general manager of Omaha radio station KFAB, was named Tuesday as president of the radio affiliates of the National Broadcasting Co.

The appointment came during the annual NBC radio affiliates meeting here.

Bremser has served on the NBC affiliates executive committee for the past 3 years. He served as secretary of the organization last year.

Bremser has been general manager of KFAB for the past 6 years.

Omaha Voters To Face $25 Million School Bond Issue

Omaha (P)—The Omaha School Board decided to ask residents of the city district to vote Feb. 5 on a $25 million school bond issue.

The money would pay the major part of a 5-year program of new schools and additions.

Supt. Paul Miller estimated the total amount needed at $28,503,000 but said $3,503,000 will come from a site and building fund levy.

Power Districts Seeking Separate Service Areas

By GENE BUDIG

Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Columbus—The separation of Nebraska public power districts into several separate service areas has been proposed.

In a joint statement of policy by the Loup Power District and the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District, the service areas were termed "local development areas."

The statement recognized two basic types of conflicts among public power agencies in Nebraska. They were:

—a conflict in use of generated electricity.

—and, a conflict in duplication and overlapping of facilities.

"The first type of conflict is reflected in the contrast between eastern and western Nebraska," the statement read.

"In the east the emphasis is upon power production for industrial and domestic use; whereas, in the west the emphasis is not only on the production of power for industrial and domestic use but, in addition, it is essential to the support of canal irrigation which has stimulated and provided major support to the economic growth of western Nebraska."

According to the statement, the solution for this conflict would come about by a separation of Loup and Platte Districts into separate local development areas.

Presently, the two are partners, operating the Nebraska Public Power System (NPPS) in joint ownership to sell wholesale electrical power.

The solution for the second conflict, again using the report, would come in these parts:

—divide the eastern part of the state into not less than two local development areas, taking into consideration the importance of local concern in the development of the natural resources and the industrial expansion in each region.

—follow a course of action which will point towards complete utility responsibility in each defined service area or region.

—protect rights of municipalities as they now exist under the law.

—require management and legal counsel to carry out these purposes so as to preserve the contractual rights of customers of the NPPS; maintain and insure the continuity of the operation of NPPS and the receipt of money by Loup and Platte Districts to pay their bonded indebtedness; and operate the districts in the manner provided by the indentures of the districts.

Future With The Planners

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The first of this week brought an emphasis on community planning in the general area of beautification. The setting was the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education where delegates had gathered for the 4th annual Nebraska Community Beautification Conference. It is quite possible that the name of the group might mislead some but only if they are inclined to think in small terms.

These delegates are not people concerned over a rock garden in the backyard, fancy curtains at the window or the decor of a room. This group of people, rather, is concerned with the total environment that makes up a city. As such, they are interested in much more, even, than such things as trees, parks, etc. They are interested as well in the architecture of a community and state, the condition of its homes and buildings, the size of its streets and the many other apparent characteristics that make up the area. Thus, one comes to the second mistaken idea that might prevail in the minds of some people—that beauty is strictly an abstraction.

Beauty may be abstract in the feeling or reaction it evokes from those who see it but it is very real in its physical sense. There is nothing abstract about a tree, about a well landscaped park, a well laid out street pattern or pleasing building lines. All of these things have a physical character of their own and many of them are even living.

In total, the beauty of a community encompasses a significant part of that community. It is, in fact, on a par with the people themselves and the nature of the activity of that community. You cannot eliminate beauty when you consider the other elements of a community such as its schools, its churches, its homes, its industrial capacity, its agricultural roots, its social structure, its politics, etc.

It is no wonder that delegates at the center gathering were told of the importance of the beauty of a community in the prospects of that community for industrial development. Giving this advice was David S. Carson, an executive of Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha. Northern has emerged in recent years as a prime mover of this state in the area of industrial growth. It has devoted considerable of its time, talent and resources to the pursuit of ends aimed at promoting the industrialization of this state. Mr. Carson does not speak from unfamiliarity with his subject. The most attractive communities, he said, are winning out in the highly competitive business of attracting new industry.

He mentioned a number of things that have become increasingly important in recent years in this matter of industrialization. Key considerations in the past have included such things as location in regard to major markets, available labor supply at reasonable costs, utility costs, availability of natural resources and the tax structure. All of these things are still important but they are being tempered with new elements. For one thing, the character of industry itself is changing, the factor emphasized by Mr. Carson. Thus, while labor is still important, a great deal more production is achieved today with fewer people than was the case a few years ago and the trend is accelerating.

Not only is the amount of labor needed per unit of work decreasing, but the demand for more skilled labor is increasing. This puts a premium on areas where educational facilities are good and where social patterns are constructive to a realization of the full potential of the individual.

Automation, of course, feeds upon itself and leads not only to skilled labor but to a demand for highly trained technical and professional people. Again, education, this time at the college and university level, is a matter of prime importance. A community of a state certainly needs to have a source of its own for such people as well as an environment agreeable to such people.

And the industrial changes taking place today have placed a premium on local financing. This has been clearly shown in the use to date in the Lincoln area of the industrial development amendment which permits local governing bodies to issue revenue bonds for financing of new plant construction. As Mr. Carson noted, a recent industrial prospect was looking for local financing of a $750,000 plant that would employ only 20 to 30 people. These changes have placed Lincoln, for instance, in a much better position than it has ever been before.

Cities today are not relegated to industrial oblivion simply because of location, natural resources or lack of a large and readily available labor force. But these same cities still are in stiff competition and those which can be classed as attractive communities in which to live are the ones that will prosper the most in the industrial future of tomorrow. Those cities which properly plan their development are those to which the future will belong.

School War Spreads

The Grand Island board of education this week closed the door to free high school tuition students.

This means that nearby rural districts must consolidate with the Grand Island schools or find some other high school for their more than 300 eligible students.

The action was a replay of last year's decision at Crete where free high school tuition students were barred after a school district consolidation proposal was defeated. Other city schools in Nebraska are expected to precipitate consolidation questions by similar actions.

Barring students is a departure in Nebraska school practice. For a long period and until a few years ago town school administrations urgently solicited tuition students. During the depressed '30s tuition income was considered vital to town school operation. At that time tuition was a modest charge. Today it amounts to $15 a week. But it is no longer attractive.

Some will deplore the unneighborliness of the town schools. But the true villain is a state which has studiously divorced itself from real responsibility and insofar as possible forced the educational burden on the local communities. Shirking the financial burden, the state is in no position to give commands to the school districts. The result is a growing Balkan war. The losers as usual will be the children who generally lose when their elders get to fighting over money.

Goldwater For President

The strongly conservative elements of the Republican party could do worse, perhaps, from the nation's point of view than securing the GOP presidential nomination for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Goldwater's philosophy still does not seem to be exceptionally firm as he is extremely conservative at one time and then moderate in his approach at another time.

If ever elected president, Goldwater would likely turn out to be much more moderate than some of his admirers now believe him to be. A group of those admirers gathered this week in Washington to see what could be done toward pushing the nomination of Goldwater. The nation, they noted, has never really been given a chance to choose a real conservative.

The extremes of conservatism have not really been well tested. It has been only in isolated cases such as House and Senate races that the question has been squarely before the people. One would think that these isolated cases would discourage the arch conservatives as their cause has consistently been a losing one at the polls.

However, they persist in their belief that the nation as a whole is as conservative as they. Perhaps it would be a good thing if this issue were put to a vote nationally. This is probably the only way in which the question will ever be settled for the Republican party. It is a question which has dogged the party for years now and one that has consistently damaged it. If extreme conservatism is the wave of the future, the fact has not yet dawned on a vast number of people.

Dr. Teller Honored

Dr. Edward Teller, Hungarian-born scientist who found asylum in the United States, this week received from President Kennedy the Atomic Energy Commission's Enrico Fermi award for his outstanding contribution to nuclear science during 1962.

The award carries with it a citation, a gold medal and a check for $50,000. It also signifies the appreciation of a country for the value of a man who could not exercise it in his home land. His wholehearted acceptance in the United States no doubt is the most comforting to Dr. Teller, albeit we imagine the $50,000 will come in handy, too.

The award reminds that it was 28 years ago, in 1944 that the late Enrico Fermi called the play on this nation's first successful nuclear chain reaction. It took place in the converted squash court in the Chicago University football stadium after several years of highly secret effort to build a successful atomic pile. A year later the first two atomic bombs put a precipitous finish to the U.S.-Japanese war.

A few years later Fermi died of cancer induced by radiation. Another great scientist who played an important role in developing the nuclear reaction was Neils Bohr, Scandinavian scientist, who died a few weeks ago. Still another was the late Albert Einstein, at whose urging President Franklin D. Roosevelt plunged the United States into the atomic age.

It is significant that international science fathered the nuclear reaction, a great many of the fugitive physicists being escapees from totalitarian lands. To the United States goes the credit of the vision, the investment and the technology required to make the atomic age a reality.

Dr. Teller not only was a pioneer in nuclear development but is an inflexible supporter of nuclear progress. Some have thought him too sanguine, but it must be conceded that he is a realist who knows the road to peace is not one of weakness.

Fourth Attempt To Punish Hoffa

WASHINGTON—The other day I dropped in on the Nashville trial of Jimmy Hoffa. A battery of government lawyers was introducing stacks of documents—over 200 of them—as evidence against the embattled head of the Teamsters Union.

This is the fourth attempt by the U.S. government to get James Riddle Hoffa, the current one in fulfillment of a public vow made by the Kennedys during the election campaign; and it's estimated the present case, with its advance preparation, is costing the government half a million dollars. A crew of attorneys and investigators has been working with special grand juries in Washington, Miami, Los Angeles, Chicago, San Francisco, Indianapolis, Detroit and New York to delve into every nook and cranny of Hoffa's life.

So much money was spent on these special grand juries that U.S. commissioners remained unpaid last summer and a special appropriation was asked of Congress to pick up the tab. All they came up with is an alleged misdemeanor resulting from a set of facts published in this column on June 7, 1956, six years ago.

These facts were that Mrs. Hoffa and Mrs. Bert Brennan, wife of the late Teamster boss in Detroit, 12 years ago were handed a company called the Test Fleet Corporation to haul cars from Michigan to dealers, after Hoffa had settled a wildcat strike.

This was, as I reported

June 7, 1956, both a profitable and reprehensible deal. However, under prevailing U.S. statutes it's only a misdemeanor.

Hoping that the trial might develop some further fireworks, I dropped in at the federal court in Nashville. It was not exciting. The lawyers were lethargic, jurors looked puzzled, spectators and newsmen seemed bored.

When a Negro mob swarmed across the Washington stadium's football field on Thanksgiving Day to beat up rooters for the victorious St. John's parochial school team, the first reaction of the D.C. commissioners and Catholic authorities was to ban championship high school games in the future.

That, however, was like putting their heads in the sand. Racial tension and crime can't be avoided simply by looking the other way.

The police have been powerless to do much about Washington's growing rate of crime. Their funds are inadequate, and it would take a cop on every block to keep down the wave of yokings and purse-snatchings that plagues the capital.

Nor can the District of Columbia government do too much about it. For years the district has been the stepchild of Congress and the victim of niggardly appropriations reluctantly voted by the Dixiecrats who control the key committees and who secretly delight in the high Negro crime rate as proof of their belief that integration won't work.

Pickpockets Are Looking Forward To Christmas

NEW YORK — At Christmas time, your handy neighborhood pickpocket is never much farther away than—well, than your wallet. He shops in the best stores and, when the shops close, he likes the clubby atmosphere of bars and bus and railroad terminals.

After Christmas, if Santa and the cops gave them a good time, the pros head down to the sunny South. They like Florida, particularly the race tracks, and who can blame them?

The pickpockets that didn't have a very prosperous Christmas season have to stay up North, of course; they join the crowds looking for post-Christmas bargains, or mangle sadly at airports and docks with prospective clients heading for resort lands.

Come spring, and it's coat-of-the-time. The pickpockets like the out-of-doors like the rest of us, so they go to the races—or the amusement parks—or the fairs.

Easter is a season the pickpockets hold dear, like Christmas, even if they have to spend a lot of time indoors at shopping centers.

The summer travel season finds the pickpockets back at the major airports and bus and train terminals, vicariously seeking out the lucky vacationers.

But they do go in for recreation, too. They like the baseball parks, although the ball parks are tough work for pickpockets because the cops are savvy to them; therefore, they must appear to be intensely preoccupied with the game, even while their minds and hands are on their occupation.

After summer comes football, basketball, and the theatre. But it is not a lucrative time of year, all in all, and most pickpockets are joyous when the Christmas season comes around again—Christmas with all its folly and folly.

For this, dear shoppers, is the biggest season of all for pickpocketing activity. After all, they need Christmas money, too.

Authority for this saga of the sneak thief is Ben Cunningham, a former FBI agent, now chief inspector for American Express. Cunningham heads a worldwide detective organization which was formed to ride herd on millions of dollars worth of travelers' checks put into circulation by traveling Americans.

He claims (not surprisingly) that people who shop with a great deal of cash on their persons are in for a sad, Santa Clausless holiday unless they comport themselves, with utmost caution. In November and December, he says, the number of professional men out to "take" you are triple the number you might counter in any other single season.

Cunningham advises women to "keep a hand over the opening of your pocket-book while walking, standing or examining merchandise. When you're in a restaurant or other public place, keep your purse on your lap."

MARQUIS CHILDS

GOP Weighs Rocky's Chances

WASHINGTON — it is a long way to that climactic moment in June of 1964 when the Republicans choose a candidate to run against Kennedy. But it is not too early to see at least the broad shape of things to come in the light of the congressional elections of last month.

The general assumption of followers of the game of politics is that the GOP nominee will be Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, re-elected by a majority of more than a half-million votes, has long since begun to lay the groundwork for an ambition that has grown as he has got deeper into the ruck of practical politics.

He has many assets. His is a brand name that does not call for a lengthy buildup toward nationwide identification, as would be essential with the newly elected Republican governors, William S. Scranton of Pennsylvania, George Romney of Michigan and James Rhodes of Ohio. Rockefeller has developed an outgoing personality and a hearty campaign approach that has proved effective on the sidewalks of New York and the teeming beaches of Coney Island.

Equally important is the inevitability, as it appears today, that the choice must come from one of the governors who demonstrated in November that they could win in the big-city states that are essential to victory in a national election. Moderate-to-liberal Republicans in Congress are already planning how they can contribute to the stature of these governors.

Sen. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, who won reelection two years ago by 220,000 votes while President Kennedy was carrying the state by 27,000, wants to make sure that the governors have their share of the spotlight allocated by the Republican national committee. He is proposing a series of conferences in the various state capitals at which moderate Republicans would meet with the governors on problems of national and state interest, such as urban renewal and an expanded housing program.

These conferences would get national attention and focus on the relation of the state and federal government as viewed from the perspective of liberal Republicanism. In Case's opinion this will be more profitable than any attempt to take over the national and congressional party machinery from the conservatives. He will be content if Sen. Thurston Morton, re-elected from Kentucky and a conservative, replaces Sen. Barry Goldwater as chairman of the G.O.P. Senatorial Campaign Committee.

Republicans react with varying degrees of enthusiasm—or lack of it—to the likelihood of a Rockefeller candidacy in '64. Senator Goldwater indicated after the November 6 election that Rocky, the governor's professional nickname, would be acceptable, adding that he was more conservative than most of the party's conservative realized. In view of the outcome on November 6 and President Kennedy's current high standing, moderate Republicans fear that Rockefeller may needlessly sacrifice himself in the vain effort to defeat a popular incumbent president. Why can't he be saved, they are saying, for 1968?

But in today's explosive world a great deal can happen in the year and a half before the nominating conventions. If Laos should go down the drain and the great American effort to purge South Vietnam of communism conspicuously fail, the President's standing might be abruptly altered. A deepening recession with no success in alleviating hard-core unemployment could work the same result.

At the same time, of course, all governors are in trouble as taxes fail to keep pace with the mounting cost of schools and highways. Rockefeller promised in the campaign that he would not raise taxes during his next term. But he will be faced after the first of the year with tailoring a budget that must include big increases for schools called for in his program. While he won a second term, his majority was 45,000 less than on his first try in 1958 when he defeated Averell Harriman by 573,000. Sen. Jacob Javits was re-elected by nearly a million majority.

One aspect of a Kennedy-Rockefeller race disturbing to some observers is the stress on the big money in current political life. Members of the Kennedy family are said to have contributed without stint to meet the demands of the 1960 national campaign—a private estimate of the total out of their combined fortunes going as high as $2,500,000. Administration sources call this greatly exaggerated.

But that would be nothing in comparison with what the Rockefeller clan could and probably would put up if their man were in the race. Figures just compiled show that the Republican state committee and the chief citizens' committees spent $2,184,000 to re-elect Rockefeller to the governorship. The Republican figure includes $1,074,346 spent on television.

That was in just one state for the governorship and, with laws covering the reporting of campaign funds as loose as they are, it is probably not the whole story. Nineteen-sixty-four could become the battle of the moneybags on a scale not hitherto seen.

RUTH MONTGOMERY

Foreign Aid Head Not Envied His Job

WASHINGTON—The least envied official in Washington today is Budget Director David E. Bell, whom President Kennedy has tapped to head the gargantuan Agency for International Development (AID).

In the fourteen years of its existence, the foreign aid program has defied the best efforts of nearly a dozen administrators, although it has been reorganized five times under different names.

Changing the name does not change the spots, however, and Congress is becoming increasingly reluctant to vote funds for the thankless agency that has dispersed the colossal sum of nearly a hundred billion dollars abroad since 1948.

Bell, when he takes office later this month, will be the third director appointed by President Kennedy in less than two years. He succeeds Fowler Hamilton, who displaced Henry Labrousse.

The first and most successful foreign aid administrator was Paul Hoffman, a Republican industrialist whom the late GOP Senator Arthur Vandenburg insisted that President Truman name to head the Economic Cooperation Administration, as the Marshall Plan was called.

Hoffman bowed out two years later, and in 1951 ECA became the Mutual Security Agency. This lasted two years, until President Eisenhower reorganized it as the Foreign Operations Administration.

That title also was short lived. In 1955 he again reshuffled the program, and called it the International Cooperation Administration. President Kennedy subsequently directed another major reorganization and last November AID was born.

Some drastic surgery will obviously be required, if the agency's ever-increasing appropriation demands are to escape the congressional axe next spring. Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver has said that the AID administrator will need "new authority and extraordinary emergency powers" if he is to do a "constructive" job, but Congress is notoriously jealous of granting such powers.

The General Accounting Office charges that we have been squandering multi-millions of dollars worth of military equipment in four Asian nations investigated, and we have foreign aid missions in 73 other countries besides.

Many legislators are becoming convinced that it is "hopeless" for America, with a population of only 180 million people, to bolster the economies of such a vast assortment of nations, with their teeming billions.

Added to the "hopelessness" of the situation is the staggering population explosion in Asia. A House subcommittee looking into the insoluble problem has heard expert testimony that by the year 2000, Asia's population will have increased by four billion people. This increase is more than the present population of the entire world.

Interestingly enough, our foreign aid projects are adding to the population explosion in backward nations.

We are teaching sanitation and health care, which reduces the death rate, but we are doing nothing to reduce the birth rate.

An official spokesman for aid, queried about our policy, said the agency is not permitted to supply birth control information, even if requested.

All such requests, he said, are referred to the United Nations, to other governments, or to private foundations.

It is the American taxpayer, however, who foots the aid bill for the already overpopulated nations of the Orient.

Too Much Spending

Lincoln, Neb.

The daily records of Nov. 29 show 13 people in Lincoln taking bankruptcy. These are but a few of the many facing this tragic situation. This is caused by the loose handling of finances—excessive spending beyond the ability to pay.

This is a graphic lesson to every government official given the authority to spend public money. Hiking wages in the higher brackets and increasing appropriations are not only increasing taxes but running us deeper into debt. If we continue breaking the laws of the eternal, it will wreck our economy, undermine the national morality, destroy our freedom and set

Stafford Succeeds Burkhardt

SCHOOL DISTRICT REORGANIZATION BODY

The State Board of Education Tuesday approved the appointment of William Stafford, superintendent of public schools at Creighton, to a 5-year term on the State School District Reorganization Committee.

Stafford will succeed Dr. Allen P. Burkhardt, executive director of the Nebraska Taxpayers Association, whose term expires at year's end.

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller described Stafford as "an experienced school administrator who has given effective leadership to school reorganization in his own area."

Deaf School OK

On another matter, the board approved the general principle of the $2.3 million building program proposed for the Nebraska School for the Deaf at Omaha, but suggested the costs as initially presented were too high.

The school's superintendent, George Thompson, told the board he would agree that some of the costs might be a "little high."

But he noted the estimates were very rough and represented just initial studies of the architectural firm employed to design the plans.

Teacher Suspended

In other action, the board suspended for 30 days the teaching certificate of Alvin L. Gaston of Curtis, effective immediately.

Proceedings were brought against Gaston, a school teacher at Stockville, after he pleaded guilty in Howard County Court to a charge of procuring beer for two minors. Gaston was living in St. Paul at the time, but has since moved to Curtis.

His attorney, Dean Ar-strong of St. Paul, told the board that Gaston's wife, Mrs. Lois Gaston, had given one beer each to the two minors after they had asked for some, and that Gaston pleaded guilty to the charge rather than have his wife do so.

Gaston was present at the time the beer was given to the two youths, who Gaston had worked with on construction during the summer.

Good Conduct

Officials of the Stockville school testified that Gaston's work and conduct has been good since he came there and they said they wanted to retain him as a teacher.

Finally, a meeting of the steering committee to formulate possible educational legislation to be introduced in the upcoming session of the Unicameral will be held Jan. 8, the board decided.

Wilhelmina Rites Dec. 8

The Hague (AP) — About 9,000 officers and men of all the Dutch military services will take part in the white funeral of Princess (former queen) Wilhelmina, who died last Wednesday at 82, the Defense Ministry announced. The funeral is to be at Delft next Saturday.

State's Reserve Keeps Strength, Units Shuffled

Omaha (UPI) — Nebraska Army Reserve strength will remain about the same but there will be a shuffling of units in the Defense Department's reorganization plan announced Tuesday.

A spokesman for XVI Corps headquarters here said 10 Nebraska Reserve units will be inactivated, 10 will be reorganized and 3 new ones will be activated.

Under the old organization, there were 44 units in the state, ranging in size from platoon to company and comprising units of battalion size or larger.

Guard Up

The Defense Department said Nebraska Reserve strength would be boosted from 2,427 to 2,488 personnel, a gain of 61. National Guard strength will be boosted from 3,563 to 3,660 men, a gain of 97.

Reserve units slated for inactivation include those at Fremont, Norfolk, West Point, Grand Island, Lexington, Lincoln, McCook, North Platte and Omaha.

Units at Columbus, Grand Island, York and Omaha will be reorganized, with most of them gaining strength, the Army spokesman said. Two units at Omaha and one at Lexington are scheduled for activation.

Department of the Army civilian employees at inactivated Reserve units will be given opportunity for employment at other units, the spokesman said.

Transfer

Non-obligated members of the inactivated units will be given the opportunity to transfer to other units. Otherwise, they will be shifted to the Standby Reserve or discharged, the Army said.

Reservists with one year or longer remaining on their obligated tour of duty will be reassigned. If they have less than one year to go, or if retraining would take longer than their remaining period of service, they will be transferred to the Ready Reserve mobilization pool.

Reserve personnel in so-called "control groups" will probably not be affected by the reorganization, the Army said.

Scheduled for activation are the 45th Transportation Center (Movement Control), Omaha; Corps augmentation unit, Omaha; and the 25th Transportation Det., Lexington.

The 76th Quartermaster Det. of the 809th Quartermaster Battalion, Fremont, will be inactivated. However, it will be reorganized with headquarters at Fremont, one platoon at Headquarters and Co. A at Norfolk, Co. B at North Platte, with platoons at McCook, Norton, Rankin and St. Francis, Kan.

Units to receive additional authorized personnel without changing organization include: 673rd Military Detachment, Omaha; Headquarters and Headquarters Co., 463rd Military Police Prisoner of War Camp, Omaha; 172nd Transportation Co., Omaha; Headquarters and Headquarters Det., 162nd Medical Battalion, Lincoln; Headquarters and Headquarters Det., 320th Ordnance Battalion, Grand Island.

Stated for inactivation, besides elements of the 809th Quartermaster Battalion at Fremont are: 182nd Quartermaster Co., Fremont; USAR Army O-S Radio Station, Norfolk; 76th Quartermaster Service Co., Norfolk; 9th Quartermaster Platoon, West Point; 11th Quartermaster Platoon, West Point; 891st Transportation Co. (Army Air craft), Lincoln.

893rd Transportation Co., Lexington and a detached platoon at Grand Island; the 809th Quartermaster Service Co., North Platte and detached 3rd and 4th Platoons, McCook; Provisional Detachment No. 1, 762nd Transportation Group, North Platte; 814 Signal Co., Omaha, and Headquarters and Headquarters Co., 762nd Transportation Group (Railway), Omaha.

Wives, Children To Return Soon

Washington (AP) — The wives and children of Navy men evacuated from Guantanamo Bay Naval Base at the outset of the Cuban crisis, will be returning soon, informed sources said Tuesday night. An announcement is expected soon from the Navy — possibly Wednesday.

Cutting At Coffee Bar Confessed

A 20-year-old Lincoln man Tuesday admitted the assault and cutting of Gary M. Hesler, Saturday night at the Purple Piano, 1036 P.

Capt. of Detectives Robert Sawdon said the youth admitted striking Hesler several times and then pulling a pocket knife from his pocket and cutting him.

Hesler, 18, of 6000 Franklin, was released from Bryan Memorial Hospital Tuesday after several stitches were taken to close the wound in his nose. It ran from the top left side down through his right nostril.

Hesler said his assailant pulled the knife on him after an argument started by the youth's offering Hesler a benzadrine filler from an inhaler.

Hesler said the 20-year-old swung the knife at him; he caught his arm and tried to avoid being cut, but the blade slashed his nose.

The youth, a resident of Lincoln about 3 months, was employed at a wholesale electric company.

Police said an outside source tipped them off to his whereabouts. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Detective Vic Wright.

Sawdon said the youth, now being held on an open charge, would be taken to the county attorney Wednesday for disposition.

Chief Of Atomics International On A Visit To Hallam

Hallam (UPI) — The president of the company which designed the Consumers Public Power District atomic power plant here visited the facility Tuesday.

Touring Sheldon Station was Dr. Chauncey Starr, president of Atomics International. A pioneer in development of nuclear energy, Starr observed all phases of the Hallam operation.

The facility is the world's first sodium-cooled, graphite-moderated reactor. At full production, the reactor will contribute at least 75,000 kilowatts to the Consumers system in Eastern Nebraska.

Starr presented a 20-year service pin to R. Max Boyd, a resident Atomics International representative at the site.

ALVARO ALSOGARAY

ARGENTINE ECONOMICS BOSS QUILTS

Buenos Aires, Argentina (AP) — Economics Minister Alvaro Alsogaray, civilian strongman of Argentina's government, resigned Tuesday night.

The 49-year-old champion of free enterprise had come under increasing fire from the military-backed government of President Jose Maria Guido and business and labor leaders.

They accused him of being unable to check the sag in Argentina's economy.

Alsogaray, who earlier in the day denied reports he had resigned, told reporters he had submitted his resignation at the president's residence in a suburb.

Out with the economics minister went the economics team he had brought into the government 9 months ago to try to raise Argentina from the economic ruins left by the former dictator, Juan D. Peron.

They included 20 officials of government banks, various departments and two other ministers — Minister of Public Works Julio Cesar Crivelli and Minister of Labor Galileo Puente.

Alsogaray said Guido neither accepted nor rejected the resignations. He said the president would consult with various other officials — beginning with the military — on the resignations.

So. Dakota Farmers Continue Watch

Mound City, S.D. (UPI) — Vigilante farmers kept an around-the-clock watch from a "command post" Tuesday over a sandbag-barricaded building which federal marshals threatened to storm to recover imprisoned government records.

The marshals and Asst. U.S. Dist. Atty. Travis Lewin held secret a plan of attack mapped out by the marshals Monday night and gave no hint when the federal platoon would try to seize the records housed in an abandoned government office.

The threat of federal intervention to bring the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) records out of the office and remove them to neighboring Herreid, S.D., sharpened a split between Campbell County farmers.

Lincoln AFB Crews Helped Pinpoint Red Ships In Crisis

Lincoln Air Force Base crews were among Strategic Air Command men who enabled the United States to pinpoint Soviet shipping headed for Cuba in the early days of the crisis, a base spokesman said Wednesday.

In a 3-day period, KC-97 crews from LAFB's 98th Air Refueling Squadron, flying from Lajes Air Base in the Azores, helped photograph an report on Red-bloc shipping in an 825,000-square-mile area of the southern North Atlantic.

The crews exposed several thousand feet of film, and made visual and radar sightings from high altitudes to as low as 300 feet above the water.

Radio communications from these planes kept American officials advised of locations and changes in course of the suspect shipping during the crucial days.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert and Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, expressed their appreciation Wednesday to Air Force men and women who contributed to massive opera-

Red China Brands Tito Traitor To Communism

Rome (AP)—Red China Tuesday branded President Tito a "100% traitor to . . . world communism"—even as the Yugoslav leader and Premier Khrushchev were embracing in Moscow.

Peking's attack — aimed at the Soviet Union — came in a bitter ideological dispute that has been raging for 3 days on the floor of the Italian Communist National Congress here.

After listening to barbs at Peking's hard-line policy in world affairs — first from Italian Red chief Palmiro Togliatti, and then from the Soviet Union's Frol Kozlov — the Chinese delegation dropped its imperturbable pose and struck back.

Chao Yi-ming, a member of the Chinese Communist Party Central Committee, used the tactic of denouncing Moscow through Yugoslavia — as the Soviets castigate Peking by blasts against Albania.

Chao rose up to call Tito a traitor at about the same time the Yugoslav president was rolling into Moscow. Khrushchev braved frigid weather to personally meet Tito's train and give him VIP living quarters in the Kremlin.

While Italian communists sat quietly, Chao delivered a two-way attack.

The Chinese delegate made no references to the India-China border, which both Togliatti and Kozlov had criticized as harmful, but he defiantly declared the Peking communist road was "armed struggle."

He went on to level bitter criticism of Italian communists for their charges against Albania. Albania sides with Peking in calls for harsh action instead of Moscow's policy of co-existence in the East-West conflict.

There are pro-Peking elements among Italian communists but Yi-ming received no applause. The only reaction was a mild ripple of clapping at the end.

Kozlov, one of the highest ranking party members in Russia and considered by some as next in line to Khrushchev, had won warm acclaim from the 900 delegates in his speech.

Board Of Education Details $21.4 Million Budget Request

The State Board of Education went to bat Tuesday for its 1963-65 budget for the State Department of Education when it appeared before Gov. Frank Morrison to explain its request for a total of $21.4 million from all fund sources.

This includes $5.7 million in property tax-supported general funds, an increase of some $1.5 million over appropriations for the current biennium.

State Board of Education President Hamilton F. Mitten of Fremont told the governor the board is solidly committed to the budget and will "work vigorously for it" because it considers it represents the expenditures necessary for the state to fulfill its obligations to provide leadership in education.

Operations Curtailed
Stating that the Department of Education has had to "curtail" some of its operations during the present biennium, Mitten said one of the "worst" problems has been "recruiting and retaining" the staff it considers necessary to fulfill its leadership role.

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller said the department has lost 45 staff members in the past 10 years, including 11 persons in the last biennium.

Included in its 1963-65 budget request, he said, are funds which would permit the employment of 33 additional staff members — 22 of whom would be slated for the Nebraska Vocational Technical School at Milford to try to staff the increased physical plant authorized by the 1961 Legislature.

Miller said the department's present salary levels trail those offered in the state's public school system by at least $1,000.

Asking $46,000
The department is seeking an additional $46,000 for salary hikes for its present professional staff; $32,000 more to fill existing vacancies, and $73,950 to fill new positions.

The department also is seeking an increase of some $500,000 in general fund monies for special education programs for both the trainable and educable mentally retarded programs.

Gov. Morrison asked Miller what the department is doing for mentally gifted youngsters, stating this was an area in which he had been "particularly concerned."

"If we are going to be competitive as a state and a nation," Morrison said, "it will be determined by what we do with our gifted children who must be given special education to provide future leadership, rather than what we do with retarded children — that's more a humanitarian thing."

Asking Miller specifically what programs the department was offering the gifted child, the commissioner replied, "None — except that we would like our good schools to put on such programs," and he added that if their department budget is approved, it would allow them more staff for more visitations to help establish such programs.

During the morning budget session, the governor heard from the Department of Agriculture and Inspection which is seeking $4.3 million for the coming biennium — a slight increase over its current actual expenditures, but down from its present appropriations.

State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson asked Agriculture Director Pearl Finigan why the department had omitted from its new budget request the account which funds vegetable research.

Finigan replied that the department omitted it because it believes it should be under the University of Nebraska which is doing the actual research, rather than the Agriculture Department.

A total of $134,600 was appropriated to the department for this purpose for 1961-63, but Finigan said, "All we're doing is bookkeeping for them."

He said he thought the program was "worthwhile," but that there was no reason why the University couldn't add it to its budget. It is not included in NU's initial request, he said.

YEUTTER . . . Ready for New York.

Frontier Rancher After Law Success

A young man from a Frontier County ranch is seeking another success in an already outstanding academic career.

Clayton Yeutter, 31-year-old University of Nebraska senior law student, will seek that success in New York—a long way from his home town of Eustis (pop. 386).

Along with William Hemmer of Lincoln and Fredric Kauffman of Omaha, Yeutter will seek the national moot court championship for NU. Competition begins in New York Dec. 18.

Hard Work
Yeutter's life might be considered a study in Nebraska hard work and success. The hard work is sure to continue, with more success just as likely to follow.

When Yeutter, father of 3 small children, isn't on his 2,000-acre prairie ranch, located 6 miles north of Eustis, and worrying about the weight of his 300 head of steers or wheat crop, he's at NU working toward not only a law degree but also a Ph.D. degree in agricultural economics, and both at the same time.

If you're worried about that academic load, forget it. He has maintained better than an 8.1 grade point average (9 would be statistically possible) in law and as an undergraduate for 7 years. He has straight 9s for 20 hours of work toward his doctorate.

Edits Law Review
Not only does he lead his class and college scholastically, but he also finds time to edit the Nebraska Law Review, official publication of the Nebraska Bar Association.

After graduating first in his class in the Air Force School of Medical Administration at Gunter Air Force Base, Ala., he was asked as a lieutenant to hold down the job of a lieutenant colonel as executive officer of the Orlando Air Force hospital—strange business for a student of agriculture.

Yeutter can trace his drive to hard-working Germans who settled near the Platte valley at the turn of the century. Yeutter describes his father as a tough, hard-driving Nebraskan with limited formal education but quick to experiment on the ranch.

"I can remember being put to work on the roundups and in the fields at the age of 10 and can't ever remember when responsibility wasn't a part of my life," he said.

"This was a perfectionist family that knew education and science was the answer to the farmer's prayer."

Yeutter's talents seemed to have blossomed from the beginning of high school. He showed 4 state champion 4-H beebes and won one honor after another in public speaking including state championships.

Best Husbandman
As an NU undergraduate, he was named the most outstanding animal husbandry graduate in the United States in 1952.

He's a man of many hats—military, rancher, law student, economist, editor, and father—and regrets only that he can spend but a few hours each week with his children. He spends two weekends a month on the ranch and all summers.

"My family is really making sacrifices for what I'm doing," he said.

He's the kind that hits one problem at a time and admits he hasn't yet decided what he wants to do when he winds up the doctorate and law school.

Politics Later
He's thought about teaching, private practice, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Politics, he says, is for a little later.

One of his major interests is the water supply of the country.

"The United States is not like Nebraska with its magnificent underground supply of water," he said. "The laws building around water rights in the nation are going to be the big ones soon and I'll see to it I'm qualified."

As for right now, the big thing on his mind is the moot court finals. He faces a challenge and he knows well that the university in the past 10 years has brought home more team and individual moot court championships than any other school in the nation.

Johnson To Join JFK At Offutt AFB

Washington (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon Johnson will fly to Omaha and meet President Kennedy on the President's tour of Strategic Air Command headquarters Friday.

At Omaha, Democratic National Committeeman Bernard Boyle said he believes the addition of Johnson was of "purely military" significance. Boyle said he was unaware of any possibility that Johnson might meet with top Nebraska Democrats for political discussions while in Omaha.

Plans call for the President and vice president to tour SAC headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base near Omaha. They will confer with SAC leaders, including Gen. Thomas Power, SAC commander.

Services Thursday For Mrs. Jones, 78

Wymore — Funeral services for Mrs. Quis Jones, 78, former Lincoln resident, will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Presbyterian Church at Wymore. Burial will be in the Blue Springs Cemetery.

County's Racing Session 'Heated'

County Commissioners held a "heated" session Tuesday on proposed licensing of a auto race track at 27th and Superior.

Temper did not flare during the public hearing, but the estimated 60 persons who crowded into the cramped office of the commissioners needed to do little more than breathe to raise the temperature 10 degrees.

No decision was handed down on the license application of Midwest Speedways for a track and 8,000-capacity grandstand on the site. County Board Chairman Ralph Harlan was out of town and not present at the meeting.

Equal Strength

A show of hands during the 5-minute hearing showed about equal strength between protesting property owners in the area and proponents.

Midwest Speedways' owners had previously sought a license for a site on West A and met with opposition of property owners in that area protesting the noise, dust, smell and proposed operation on Sunday.

Proponents of the new track site were represented by attorney Lloyd Marti, who pointed out that opposition to any location for the track would appear "even if we wanted to put it in the middle of the Sahara desert."

Jaycees In Favor

Racing association officials and a representative of the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce appeared favoring the granting of the license.

Opponents included nearby residence owners, a representative of the Brunswick Co., a firm planning to build a plant nearby, and attorney Rollin Bailey representing Lincoln Speedways owners, who warned that the Lincoln area "won't support two racing operations." Lincoln Speedways formerly operated at Capital Beach until it was annexed into the city.

In other business the commissioners approved an amusement license for East Hills. The license formerly held at the dance hall was allowed to lapse last year. No opposition was voiced at a hearing.

The board also approved calling a special meeting for 11 a.m. next Tuesday to act on contracts between the Wander Co. and the county in regard to the drug firm's plant being built northeast of Lincoln.

The board will also act on issuing $3,000,000 in industrial revenue bonds for the new plant under provisions of the Industrial Development Amendment.

Expense Rule Eased By IRS

... AMID WIDE PROTESTS

Washington (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service Tuesday announced an easing of some of its proposed regulations on expense accounts even as business and labor lined up in protest against the new rules.

IRS Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin said some changes would be made to make the regulations more liberal when they go into effect Jan. 1. He said this was being done because of written objections received from the business community.

Caplin made his announcement at the opening of a two-day public hearing on the new regulations. More than 60 persons are expected to express their viewpoints before the session ends Wednesday.

Tighten Deductions

The rules are designed to tighten up tax deductions for travel and entertainment. Under the modifications announced by Caplin, less detail will be required on expenses that are claimed as deductions on tax returns.

Thus, a salesman will not have to make a separate list of such miscellaneous expenses as taxi fares, local telephone calls, gasoline for his car and parking fees. A person travelling on business will not have to name the restaurants where he eats, provided the meal cost does not include entertainment of others.

Tips will not have to be listed as a separate expense.

They can be included as part of the cost of a meal.

Another change is that the time of business meals will not have to be given. A detailed breakdown of the use of facilities such as clubs will no longer be required.

Caplin also said that the IRS is giving "serious study" to the controversial proposal requiring those on expense accounts to get an itemized receipt for expenditures of $10 or more. He said this item "may raise special problems for some taxpayers."

Many speakers at the public hearing Tuesday contended the $10 standard was too low. One suggestion was that the limit be raised to $25.

Internal revenue sources said strong consideration was being given to raising the limit. But they set no figure.

Unreasonable Chores

At the public hearings, spokesmen for the professions, unions and industry complained that the new rules would saddle businesses with unreasonable bookkeeping chores.

The $10 rule was singled out for specific criticism on these grounds.

Joel Barlow, a director of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, praised Caplin's modifications but said they did not go far enough.

The regulations were drafted under the 1962 tax law. But Barlow contended that the intentions of Congress "have been expanded out of all proportion."

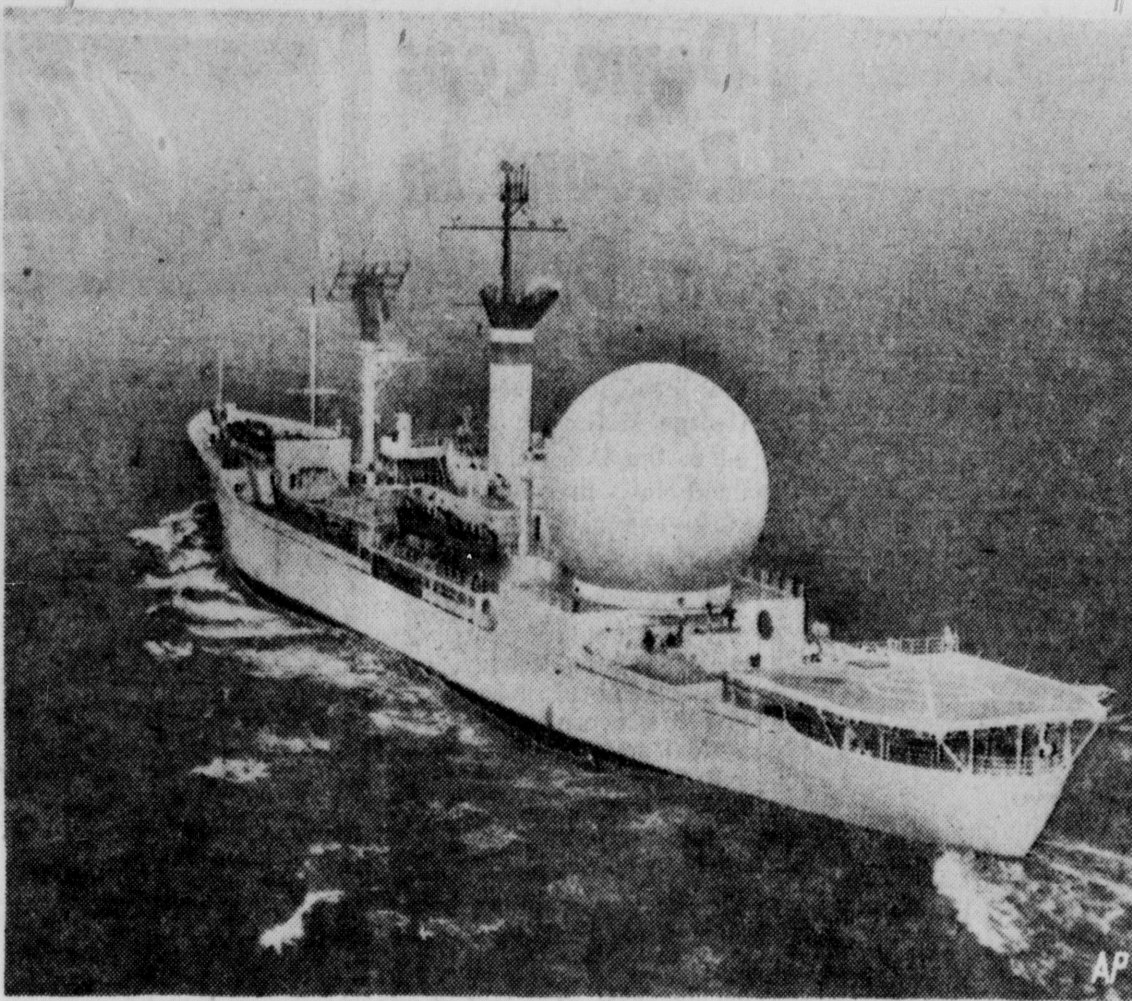

More Liberal

Some of the counter-proposals would make the rules even more liberal than they are now. At present the IRA accepts an allowance of $20 a day within its definition of accounting for reimbursed expenditures.

But the American Hotel & Motel Association suggested that "travelers on business should be allowed to deduct up to $30 per day for meals and lodging without furnishing detailed receipts."

A representative of hotel and restaurant employees claimed the regulations "may jeopardize" 100,000 jobs. But he acknowledged that this figure was a pure guess that could not be substantiated.

The spokesman, C. T. Anderson of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union, said convention cities such as New York, Chicago and Miami would be "hit and hard."

NEW SEAGOING SATELLITE TERMINAL

The USNS Kingsport, the Navy's first seaborne terminal for satellite communication heads for Philadelphia Naval Base where it will be turned over to the Military Sea Transportation Service by the Bureau of Ships. The snow-white ship, converted from a World War II Victory Ship, will be one of 4 terminals used by the Army to test satellite communication capabilities. Two others are ground units while the 3rd is an air-transportable unit. The Kingsport has an array of antenna including a 30-foot parabolic tracking dish covered with a 54-foot diameter radome sphere almost at midship. A helicopter landing platform covers the stern.

Old Railroad Worker Risks Job For Locomotive Love

Wolverhampton, England (AP) — Engineer John Illsley risked his job, his pension and a possible jail term for love of a locomotive. He stole 12 pounds of cotton cleaning waste.

But it looked today as if everything will turn out all right.

Illsley, 60, was arrested by railway policemen. He was squirreling away cotton waste for future use in fear that a new administration in his division would issue only leather scrap to shine and polish his engine.

He pleaded guilty to stealing the waste, worth perhaps $5.

But magistrates freed him after hearing the full story from his lawyer, Peter Woolley.

"Old railwaymen take pride in their engines the way a fastidious car owner takes pride in polishing his car," Woolley said.

Illsley is convinced that cotton waste is the only satisfactory material to clean a locomotive, the lawyer said.

Woolley cited a rule of Britain's nationalized railways for automatic discharge of employees convicted of theft.

A spokesman of Illsley's union said privately after the hearing he is almost certain Illsley will lose neither his job nor his pension and "in the circumstances we will prepare an appeal."

The management said it will be guided by the union's ruling.

DENVER FEELS EARTH SHOCK

Denver (AP)—Reports of what appeared to be an earth shock came from many parts of Denver Tuesday.

Newspaper and press association offices and Regis College, which has a seismograph, were deluged with calls. There were no immediate reports of any damage.

Gordon Gauss, Associated Press reporter at the Colorado statehouse, said he felt a heavy shock, lasting only a split second.

The shock also was felt in southeast Denver, the Park Hill area, in the stockyards section and in north Denver.

ASCS Alerts Wheat Men To Sign Up

Wheat growers were alerted Tuesday by the Lancaster Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office that if they plan to sign up for the 1963 Wheat Stabilization program, they must file applications before Dec. 14.

John B. Bowers, Lancaster ASCS office manager, reminded farmers that participation in the wheat program will qualify them for diversion acreage payments.

If the final wheat acreage is within allotment, an extra payment of 18 cents per bushel will be paid on normal production in addition to the $1.92 loan rate, he added.

Bowers had another reminder for farmers desiring income from their grain sorghum and corn during the current year.

"Farmers desiring their grain sorghum and corn income during 1962 should make their loan applications by Dec. 21, to allow processing by our office before Jan. 1," said Bowers.

Final date to secure loans on grain sorghum is Jan. 31, 1963, and for corn May 31, 1963, Bowers said.

Kuznetsov Details Removal Of Planes

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI) — Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov called U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to the Soviet Embassy late Tuesday and gave him a detailed schedule on the shipment of Russian jet bombers out of Cuba.

Earlier, as moves developed for a quick wrap-up of the Cuban problem here, Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga submitted a formula for Security Council action to Secretary General Thant and asked him to transmit it to the United States.

Kuznetsov unexpectedly asked Stevenson to visit him for a meeting that began at 3:10 p.m. CST and broke up about 4 p.m. It was one of the shortest sessions in the long series of negotiations. Stevenson was accompanied by his deputy, Ambassador Charles W. Yost.

Information

Stevenson said Kuznetsov gave him "some information relative to the ships and sailing dates and the number of IL28 bombers in crates which they are withdrawing from Cuba."

Russia was understood to have sent about 30 obsolescent medium range bombers to Cuba. The government Monday released aerial pictures of the first homeward bound Soviet ship with fuselages of the planes visible on its deck.

Stevenson said there was a "further discussion of our differences" at the Soviet embassy meeting.

Refusal

The differences still centered on Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's refusal to permit adequate verification of the removal of Soviet offensive weapons systems and safeguards against their reintroduction, both insisted upon by the United States. Until such assurances are received, the United States refuses to give any pledge against an invasion of Cuba.

There appeared to be a growing acceptance of the deadlocked situation and it seemed likely that the crisis talks here would end in such a stand-off that would leave the situation as it was before President Kennedy disclosed the missile threat in his Oct. 22 television statement.

U.S. sources said they had "been acquainted" with the document Lechuga gave Thant Tuesday. They did not seem impressed.

Suggestions

Informed sources said the Cuban document contained suggestions for a statement to be made at a Security Council meeting. Its detailed content was not known.

Russia was reported eager to have a council meeting to wrap up the crisis situation. With no agreement in sight, such a meeting apparently would be held only to hear statements by the Soviet Union, the United States and Cuba, adjourning after simply "taking note" of them.

The United States saw no need for a formal meeting. If such statements were to be the conclusion of the crisis, the U.S. position was that they could as well be submitted in writing for the council records, without a formal meeting of the 11-nation group.

Uproar Over Sen. Ellender Spreads Throughout Africa

Nairobi, Kenya (P)—The uproar arising from Sen. Allen J. Ellender's remarks questioning the ability of African leaders echoed across Africa Tuesday.

Tanganyika banned the Louisiana Democrat from entering that country, as had Uganda the day before.

The influential African National Union of Kenya announced it had canceled all appointments with the Senator, due in Kenya next on his swing through Africa. It also said it would try to have him banned from Kenya.

A delegation from the United National Independence Party, strongest African party in Northern Rhodesia, issued a strong protest.

What caused all the trouble was Ellender's remarks in Southern Rhodesia that he had yet to see any part of Africa that was ready for self-government.

"The average African is incapable of leadership without white assistance," he was quoted as telling a news conference Saturday.

A fellow Democratic Senator, tried to quiet the storm in a radio address over Kenya radio. Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said U.S. policy is to support self determination in Africa.

On his own tour of the past 3 weeks, Hartke said he had met ministers and businessmen in west, central and east Africa and "I am convinced that basically Africans are able to govern themselves."

"In Salisbury, South Rhodesia, U.S. Consul General Paul Gerens said Ellender was "giving his personal views and not those of the United States government."

Gerens was replying to the protest lodged by the United National Independence Party with the U.S. consulate in Northern Rhodesia.

Demo Cops Recount In So. Dakota

Pierre, S.D. (UPI) —Former Food for Peace director George McGovern was elected to the U.S. Senate by an unofficial margin of 516 votes, completion of a recount in all 67 South Dakota counties showed Tuesday.

Brown County totals were reported late Tuesday, two days ahead of schedule, to give McGovern, a Democrat, a final state count of 127,547 and Republican Sen. Joseph H. Bottom 127,031 in United Press International unofficial tabulations.

There was a strong indication Bottom would take his apparent defeat to the state supreme court in a test of the more than 2,300 ballots that were disqualified by recount boards.

McGovern gained 19 votes in Beadle County but lost 18 in Codington County and 4 in Brown County.

Robert Riter, Bottom's recount attorney, has said his forces were considering a request for a supreme court ruling on the propriety of disqualifying the ballots — most of them which had been cast in Bottom's favor.

A special state board of canvassers consisting of GOP Gov. Archie Gubbrud, Secretary of State Essie Wiedeman, also a Republican, and one or more supreme court judges, was scheduled by law to meet Thursday to declare a winner.

Josephine Lowman

This stretching and breathing exercise is ideal for the out-of-shape mature woman.

Without exercise and diet control, figure problems increase as the years pass. Many women drop sports as they grow older. After they marry they take pride in providing delicious food for their husbands. Also they sample while they cook and many indulge in more in-between snacks than they once did. This is natural since they are around the house more and are less active outside of their homes.

Then comes the first baby who is a darling, but who may also be a threat, not only to the figure but to marital happiness. If a woman neglects her husband because of this enveloping, magic, new experience, and does not adopt some figure reconditioning after the birth of her child, figure AND husband "problems" may result.

If you neglected yourself in your thirties you will have more problems than are necessary in your forties. If you neglected yourself in your forties you will have greater handicaps in your fifties, and so on. However, no matter how long you have been careless, you can always make a great improvement, much more than you will believe until you try.

Our muscles deteriorate and lose their elasticity without regular exercise. The change in the figure from a youthful one to a matronly one is due to this factor as well as to the accumulation of fatty deposits.

Today I want to give you a few simple exercises for the mature woman who has not been indulging in a daily exercise routine.

1. Stand tall. Raise your arms overhead. Stretch toward the ceiling, reaching up with your arms as you sway from side to side. Before swaying, take a deep breath and hold it while you move to the left—the right—the left—and the right. After this exhale and drop your arms to your sides. Repeat several times. Remember to stretch upward.

2. Stand with your left side toward a wall or place your left hand on a chair top. Swing your right leg forward and backward as far in each direction as you can comfortably reach. After a while turn your right side toward the wall and swing with your left leg. You can do this just as lazily or as briskly as you wish, depending on your condition.

Just the habit of holding your abdomen in, or pulling your abdominal muscles toward your back bone and holding while you count to ten, is a wonderful abdominal exercise. You can do it whenever you are sitting. Remember this several times a day.

If you would like to have my Six Introductory Exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 25 in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Dear Abby

Good Sense Not Out Of Date

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I had a date with a sailor, and he was a doll. He is my girl friend's steady's shipmate and it was a fixed-up date. I had a marvelous time. When he took me home he asked for a good-night kiss. I told him I didn't believe in kissing a boy on the first date, and that a kiss was meant to show "love," and I didn't know him that well. He said a kiss was meant to show appreciation and I was "old-fashioned." Was I wrong, Abby? Do girls really kiss boys to show their "appreciation"? My girl friend said he liked me a lot and would call me again. If he does, should I go? I am 16 and he is 19.

DIMPLE IN MY CHIN
DEAR DIMPLE: If he calls you again, go. It might indicate that he respects your "old-fashioned" ideas. But if he insists that "affectionate gestures" mean "thank you," kiss him "goodbye—forever."

DEAR ABBY: In the interest of one's health, do you think it is wise to bathe during the winter months?

DEAR A. L.: Out of consideration for one's FRIENDS, I would recommend it.

DEAR ABBY: We are a family of eight adults. Our father passed away years ago and our mother is 80. She is senile and has been in a sanitarium for six years. Only one of my sisters and I visit her regularly and attend to her needs. Mother will not be with us much longer, and I am wondering if my sister and I should waste the time and money to notify our brothers and sisters when mother dies. They live near enough so they could have visited her once a year (they all take vacations elsewhere) and not one of them has ever sent her a card or a cent. They never write to us, or call to ask how she is. She was a wonderful mother and doesn't deserve to be forgotten this way.

A DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: Yes, notify them when your mother dies. And don't be surprised to see the ones who did the least for her when she was living cry the loudest at her funeral.

DEAR ABBY: The doctor told my husband that whiskey was good for a cold, so every time my husband gets the sniffles he buys himself a fifth of whiskey and gets plowed out of his mind. This has been happening more and more lately until I am beginning to wonder if my husband really has a cold. Right now he is stretched out on the sofa sleeping off another one of his "cures." Isn't there another way to cure a cold, Abby?

GETTING DISGUSTED
DEAR GETTING: You bet! Call your doctor and ask him to prescribe a remedy. I think your husband is looking for an excuse to get a snootful.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's secretary told me that a married woman telephones my husband constantly. I know who she is. She has three children and a no-good husband. My husband has taken her to lunch several times in this city, and he has seen her out of town. (He claims he "ran in to her.") I asked him what they had in common, and he said she was just a "friend" who was unhappy and needed someone to talk to. He says it is perfectly innocent relationship. Does it sound innocent to you? We have teen-aged children and I don't want my marriage broken up.

IN DANGER
DEAR IN: If it is innocent now, it has all the in-

Opening lead—king of clubs.

The declarer sometimes finds he has all the tricks he needs to make the contract and yet can't cash them because he has insufficient communication between his own hand and dummy's. This problem of entries may be impossible to solve in a particular hand, but there are some deals where a little ingenuity provides the answer.

South was in four hearts and West led two top clubs. East discarding a diamond on the second one. West then made the best defensive play of a low club, which East ruffed and South overruffed.

At this point the declarer had good reason to believe he would make the contract without difficulty, since he had ten tricks consisting of five hearts, four spades and a diamond, but when he led the ace of hearts and East showed out, the problem of cashing them all assumed serious proportions.

Declarer realized that if he drew trumps first, he would be unable to return to his hand to cash the jack of spades, while if he attempted to cash the AK-Q of spades first, it was practically certain that West would trump one of them.

Faced with this dilemma, South came forth with an unusual play that succeeded in making the contract. He decided to play East for the king of diamonds because it was improbable that West would have passed originally with the A-K-Q-10-3 of clubs and the diamond king as well.

Accordingly, South drew three more rounds of trumps, discarding the ace of diamonds from dummy on the last one! He then cashed the A-K-Q of spades, reducing his hand to the jack of spades and the Q-3 of diamonds.

When he now led the ten of diamonds from dummy, East had had it. East could not prevent declarer from winning two of the last three tricks. In the actual case, East took the ten of diamonds with the king, but he then had to concede the last two tricks to the jack of spades and queen of diamonds.

Bridge is an easy game.

Interesting Things On The Horizon

Just as we arrive at the conclusion that we have exhausted all possible topics for conversation, we learn of numerous other exceedingly interesting subjects.

This morning there is but one fly in the spectacular news ointment—We can't do any talking—at least not yet. The day will soon come, however, when we tell all, and the news will be interesting.

Right now we are wondering how many Cornhusker fans will make the trip to the Gotham Bowl—otherwise known as the Yankee Stadium—for the Nebraska-Miami (Fla.) game on Dec. 15—

While we are wondering about the game—and awaiting a future date and some exciting news, we'll take a bit of a trek to Houston, Tex. where Tom Pierson, Jr.—age 14, recently was heard in two concerts with the Houston Symphony Orchestra. Young Tom Pierson has some sturdy roots in Nebraska—He is the son of Thomas C. Pierson, former Houston resident, now associate professor of music at Mount St. Mary's College, Brentwood, Calif., and Mrs. Pierson—and is the grandson of Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Pierson of Lincoln.

The 14 year-old pianist played the first movement of the Khatchaturian Concerto for piano and orchestra.

Here at home things are brewing for Saturday evening—a dinner dance for the members of the 100 Club. This will be the group's Christmas party and is to be held at the Lincoln Country Club. Planning the party details is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoppe chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. William L. Beachley, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bookstrom, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Ludwick, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Tinstman, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cunningham and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pace.

Guest couples will include Dr. and Mrs. James Weesner, Dr. and Mrs. Jon Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Boshart.

Saturday is not without its daytime social activities, however. We hear that Miss Stephanie Dort will be a dessert luncheon hostess at her home on Saturday when she pays prenuptial courtesy to Miss Kitty McDonald. Sixteen guests, most of them Delta Gamma sisters of the bride-elect and her hostess, have been invited, and the soon-to-be bride will be presented with a miscellaneous shower.

Just as a refresher—Miss McDonald's marriage to Norman Beatty will be solemnized on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 22, at St. Matthews Church, Episcopal.

Thumbing through the December calendar we find two interesting events for Friday, Dec. 14—one in the morning—the second in the evening.

The morning affair is a knitting club for which Mrs. Douglas Dort will be hostess at her home. The knitters, and we are told they really knit, will arrive at 11:30 o'clock, stay for luncheon, and spend the early portion of the afternoon knitting.

The evening affair on Dec. 14 is the traditional Carol Sing for which Mr. and Mrs. James Ackerman and Mr. and Mrs. George Holyoke are host and hostesses each pre-holiday season. This year the group will sing their carols at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman.

Bridal Showers

Honoring a soon-to-be bride on Sunday afternoon was Mrs. James Hahn who entertained at her home in courtesy to Miss Linda Pauley.

Miss Pauley, who will become the bride of Reg Gartner on Friday, Dec. 28, at Trinity Methodist Church, was presented a pottery shower by the guests, who included Delta Delta Delta sorority sisters of the honoree and hostess.

Also included among the guests were Miss Pauley's mother, Mrs. Reon Pauley, and Mr. Gartner's mother, Mrs. Robert Gartner. Miss Fauna Trout was the guest of honor on Tuesday evening when feminine members of her bridal party entertained at a kitchen and grocery shower. The hostesses were Miss Bonnie Phelps, Miss Lois Abts and Miss Rachel Grummert.

Also entertaining recently for the December bride-elect was Mrs. Lee Allen, Mrs. Ervin Kiesz and Mrs. Arvid Unruh, who were hostesses to a group of guests at the home of Mrs. Unruh. During the informal evening, a miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Trout.

The wedding of Miss Trout and James L. Allen will be an event of Sunday, Dec. 23, at Christ Methodist Church.

SOUTH HILLS

South Hills has a medal winner! That's right, little Miss Sandra Sieck brought home a third place medal from the National Baton Twirlers' Association contest held in Omaha last Saturday.

Sandra, the daughter of Mrs. Ardell Sieck, is a little six-year-old miss who has been working with the baton for less than a year now. She won her third place medal while competing with approximately 250 contestants.

Congratulations, Sandra!

And now we'll tell you about two birthdays in South Hills—one that is past, and one coming up this Friday.

The one celebrated earlier last week was that of Mrs. Elizabeth Noren, who is presently the houseguest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noren. Mrs. Noren is from Superior, and she will be visiting Mr. and Mrs. Noren for an indefinite period this winter.

That birthday coming up belongs to Miss Linda Wichauser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wichauser. As of this morning party plans are uncertain, but whether or not a party takes shape for next weekend, Linda will be celebrating her 16th birthday with her parents and younger sister, Terri.

Returning early last week from an extended Thanksgiving visit were Mr. and Mrs. Hale A. Dodge and their little ones, Craig, Mike, Arden, and Erin. Mr. and Mrs.

Dodge and family were guests of Mrs. Dodge's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Church, in Dighton, Kan.

And Osceola, Iowa, visitors in Lincoln last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cook who were guests at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Cook.

Helping entertain grandmother and grandfather were the little Cooks, Connie and Kim.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook arrived in Lincoln last Thursday, and returned to Osceola yesterday.

Evening Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Marilyn Acton of Turton, S.D., formerly of Lincoln, daughter of Mrs. Leon Barrie of Turton, and of Robert F. Acton of Lincoln, to Loyal Barrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Barrie of Raymond, S.D., was solemnized on Sunday Nov. 25, at the First Methodist Church in Doland, S.D. The lines of the 7:30 o'clock service were read by the Rev. C. Emory Anderson, and Miss Joan Bell, organist, played the wedding music. Miss Bell also accompanied Miss Elaine Acton, sister of the bride, who was the vocal soloist.

The matron of honor and bride's only attendant was Mrs. James Barrie of Lincoln, who frocked in aqua satin. She carried a cascade arrangement of gold-toned chrysanthemums.

William Schlotter of Doland, S.D., served Mr. Barrie as best man, and seating the guests were Robert Noonan, Aberdeen, S.D., and Thomas Acton, Turton.

The bride chose white nylon lace over tulle for her wedding gown. The long-sleeved bodice was designed with a heartshaped neckline, traced with seed pearls, and the very full skirt of lace was completed at the back by tiers of lace and tulle ruffles. Her illusion veil was held by a coronet of pearls, and she carried white Fuji chrysanthemums in a crescent bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrie will reside in Raymond, S.D.

Former Coed Wins Contest

Mrs. Stan Kennedy of Alamogordo, N.M., the former Marilyn Lehr of Lincoln, recently won first place in the senior division of the Farm Labor Bureau talent contest, held at Las Cruces, N.M.

Mrs. Kennedy's medley of songs from "Oklahoma!" won for her a trip to Atlanta, Ga., and the national talent contest on Dec. 9.

The daughter of Mrs. Harold Lehr of Lincoln, Mrs. Kennedy, before her marriage was active in the Lincoln Community Theater and Kosmet Klub productions at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and Masquers.

Last summer, she played the lead in the Music Theater's production of "Guys and Dolls," at Alamogordo, where her husband is city manager.

CHATTER -- in the -- CORRIDOR

By KATHIE WATTS

Hello again! Have you started your Christmas shopping yet? If not, better get on the ball, because there are only 20 more days left.

Pius has been very busy this week in preparing for different endeavors. The Chorus is getting ready for the annual Christmas Pageant and the Juniors put on their play. Also, basketball practice is in full swing as is wrestling.

The Junior class play, "The Little Dog Laughed," was a big success. Both casts turned in a fine performance and hats off to the two student directors, Lynn Field and Donna McQuillan, who did such a fine job. After the play on Saturday evening, Sister Agnes Ricarda, the director, was presented with a bouquet of red roses, a gift from the cast, to show their appreciation for all the long hours she put in for the success of the play. Steve Drozda hosted a party Saturday night for the cast.

On November 28, 15 juniors took part in the County Government Day. They were James Feather, Bill Dean, Bob Fitzgerald, Terry Adams, Jack Ganser, Pat Dalton, Victor Lonney, Mike Toughill, Kathy Meade, Tom Hoidal, Jim Thomas, Geraldine Judy, Mark Cunningham, Jerry Satterland, Gene Springer, and Jeanne Hamsa. All of the participants said the day was very interesting and worthwhile. Much knowledge was gained by everyone.

There are only a couple of more days until the Crystal Ball. As last year, it will be held at East Hills. The only topic on the girls' minds this week is what to wear, while the boys are mainly concerned in getting the tickets. All of the committees are working very hard to make this Crystal Ball the best yet!

Three girls from Pius were represented at the Miss Datesetter contest held on Dec. 1. They were Lynn Field, Lavonne Lange and Carol Hauschild.

On December 9 five junior students from Pius will take part in the "Voice of the Young Citizen" program. They are Donna Tegmeyer, Kathy Pattison, Jerry Satterland, Dick Harrington and Joan Wilson. They will speak on the topic of "Discipline."

That's all for now—See you next week.

To Honor Volunteers

The volunteers who are participating in the campaign March for Leukemia, Dec. 1 to 15, will be honored at a coffee Wednesday afternoon at the First Federal Bldg.

Mrs. Frank Morrison, honorary chairman of the local campaign, will preside at the refreshment table during the 2 o'clock to 4 o'clock coffee.

Honor December Bride-Elect

Miss Janet Irwin was the guest of honor on Friday evening at a bridal shower for which Mrs. Alton Pardee, Mrs. Charles Hanna and Mrs. Dean Baumeister were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Pardee. During the informal evening, a miscellaneous shower was presented to the honoree, who will become the bride of Daniel Nydegger on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 29, at the First Christian Church.

From the left are the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Rayburn Irwin; Miss Irwin; Mrs. Hanna; Mrs. Baumeister and Mrs. Pardee.

POSTCARD

by

Sten Delaplana

Since Argentina is a land of gauchos and beefsteak, the nicest thing you can do in the sunny, South American Spring is ride out and eat parrilladas.

"Parrilladas are the soul of Argentina," said the Braniff Airways man who drove me out along the Rio de la Plata. "The various pieces of beef fill the heart of the Argentinian as well as his stomach."

The broiled beef is sold at 60 stands that line the Avenida Costanera along the broad, muddy Rio de la Plata. (60 miles wide at this point.)

The stands are about the size of one of our hot dog outdoor counters.

They are owned by the city of Buenos Aires — population 6,000,000.

The 6,000,000 — as well as all Argentina — eats a pound and a half of beef per person per day.

"We eat it for breakfast.

We eat it for lunch. And we eat it for dinner and sometimes as evening snacks.

"If you have a girl, you bring her out here in the evening and eat beef. Hold her hand and eat beef."

"It sounds romantic but a little greasy."

"Not at all," said the Braniff man. "All Portenos — that is our word for a man from Buenos Aires — learn to eat left-handed. He reserves the right hand to hold the girl's left hand. He eats with his outside hand."

The parrillada stands have no names, just numbers. "When we make a luncheon engagement, we say: 'I will meet you at 47' — or whatever the number is."

In this case, we ate at number 57.

The stands have a half dozen benches outside, overlooking the river.

The cooking counter is open. It has a charcoal fire. A rack of Argentine wine bottles. One gallon bottle slung in a cradle so that you can pour a glassful at a time. A row of condiments, peppers, olives.

The beef comes in courses. Beef sausage. Beef kidney. Beef brains. Beef liver. Then beef. I mean half a cow.

We cleaned up the beef and had an egg, sugary dessert. We had coffee. And a few of the people had another bit of beef. "It is more than food. It is soul."

They all went back assuring each other they had to get to work.

I doubt it. I went back to the hotel and slept until 6. You can hardly walk with that much beef aboard. And I don't think they could either.

What Do Doctors Do When They Suffer HEADACHE PAIN?

New York, N.Y.—Most doctors live under constant nervous tension, pressure and mental strain. It's not surprising they, too, often suffer from miserable headaches. But now — it can be revealed what doctors, themselves, take to relieve headache pain.

A survey shows many doctors take the fast, pain-relieving ingredients in Anacin®. In fact, three out of four doctors recommend this same type of relief to their patients.

Anacin Tablets are stronger yet safer. They give fast, long-lasting and — more complete relief from tense, nervous headaches than aspirin or aspirin with buffering. You see, mere aspirin or buffered aspirin contains only one pain reliever. But Anacin is different. Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of medically proven ingredients recognized for their effectiveness by the highest medical authorities. Anacin gives extra medication that not only relieves pain fast, but also its nervous tension, pressure and depression.

After taking Anacin — pain goes in minutes! The sufferer 'feels great' again.

Despite their strength and effectiveness — Anacin Tablets contain no narcotics, do not form a habit or leave one depressed. Anacin may be taken as directed as often as needed without upsetting or irritating the stomach.

See if the extra medication in Anacin doesn't work better for you. Change to Anacin for fast, long-lasting, more complete pain-relief.

13 Accused Of Cuban Expedition Preparation

Key West, Fla. (AP)—Thirteen khaki-clad men were arrested Tuesday on a tiny island in the Florida Keys and accused of preparing an armed expedition against Cuba.

Wearing marine battle fatigues, they were picked up as they boarded an arms-laden boat at Marathon Key, about 40 miles northeast of here. All but 3 are Americans.

At a hearing before U.S. Commissioner William V. Albury, the men denied the accusation. But Albury found sufficient cause to turn them over to U.S. District Court in Miami, Fla., on a formal charge of conspiring to violate the neutrality act. They were held under $1,000 bond each.

Said Merely Training
The men — two Cubans and a Canadian among them — told Commissioner Albury they were merely training at the time of their arrest. They said they had been doing this for the past 6 months without interference.

Later the apparent leader of the group, Gerald Patrick Henning, 25, of Los Angeles, Calif., a strapping 6-foot-6, indicated there were other anti-Castro guerrillas training in the Keys.

Henning identified himself as a "special instructor." He served until 1960 in Castro's air forces, he said.

"We have no name and belong to no other anti-Castro faction," Henning said as he sat in a cell with his mates in the Monroe County jail.

Group Armed
Border Patrol and customs agents swooped down on the small band at Marathon shortly after midnight, Albury said. The boat carried 15 rifles, 5 pistols and ammunition for both; two plastic bombs, and a hand grenade.

"We got our arms and ammunition through friends and from sympathetic organizations," Henning said later. "But we didn't have enough gas last night to get even halfway to Cuba. We were merely going over for maneuvers at No Name Key."

No Name Key is an isolated spot of land near Marathon, accessible only by boat. Henning described it as the "departure point" not only for his group but for others in training in the area.

In the group was James A. Lewis, 29, of San Francisco, Calif., who had a badly swollen ankle and claimed he broke it while practicing parachute jumping 5 days ago. Lewis was later removed to a hospital.

"Oh, we are all checked out as parachutists," said Henning, waving his arm over his group.

"We were receiving no pay or anything," Lewis added. "I haven't even had a beer in the longest time."

Later Lewis and Henning were overheard discussing the charge against them.

"Does it matter who violates neutrality, the government or us?" Lewis asked.

Just Adventure Group

"They're just an adventure group that could get our country into trouble," Albury said.

The Cubans in the group identified themselves as Eleno O. Alvarez, 26, and Remigio Arce, 43, both now residing in Miami. The Canadian was William J. Dempsey, 21, Stratford, Ont.

The others were Ronald P. Ponce De Leon, 22, born in Cuba and now a U.S. citizen; Lawrence J. Howard Jr., 27, of Pico Rivera, Calif.; Edwin A. Collins, 27, Justin J. Wilson, 26, William Seymour, 25, Edmund Colby, 31, and Joseph C. Garman, 32, all of a single Miami address; Roy E. Hargraves, 22, also of Miami.

Evans Sentenced To 25 Years In Enders Robbery

Omaha (AP) — Charles William Evans, 37, of Denver, was sentenced Tuesday on 3 counts stemming from the $25,000 robbery of the state bank of Enders, Neb., last April.

Federal District Judge Richard Robinson sentenced Evans to 20 years each on two counts, the sentences to run concurrently, and 5 years on the 3rd count, the term to be consecutive to the other two sentences.

Evans was convicted by a jury.

Charles Edward Saxton, 24, of Denver, who was acquitted of robbery charges but held guilty on a charge of interstate transportation of stolen property, was placed on 3 years probation.

Saxton had maintained that he did not know a robbery was planned when he accompanied Evans and Richard Davis, 36, Denver, to Enders. Davis pleaded guilty to robbery charges and is serving a 15-year term.

Evans still must face a charge of escape from the Douglas County jail in Omaha. He fled by trading places with a prisoner due to be released but was recaptured in Denver.

IT'S OFFICIAL---NU IN BOWL

... Miami Provides Opposition In Gotham Contest

By DON BRYANT
Star Sports Editor

It's business as usual—football practice, that is—at the University of Nebraska today.

Coach Bob Devaney will assemble his Cornhuskers this afternoon to resume their gridiron labors in preparation for a Gotham Bowl appearance at New York's Yankee Stadium a week from Saturday, Dec. 15.

The Scarlets, who finished 3rd in the Big 8 and had an 8-2 season mark—best for NU since 1940—will meet the University of Miami Hurricanes in the March of Dimes benefit.

This was assured Tuesday night when Big 8 faculty representatives and Nebraska Regents gave their blessings to the Gotham jaunt.

It will mark the first time 3 Big 8 teams have seen post-season duty, and it will be the Cornhuskers 3rd bowl appearance. Oklahoma will play Alabama in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day, while Missouri tangles with Georgia Tech on Dec. 22 at Houston, Tex.

Nebraska will be looking for its first bowl victory against the aerial-minded Hurricanes, paced by All America quarterback George Mira. In 1941 the Huskers lost 21-13 to Stanford in the Rose Bowl and in 1955 Duke ripped NU 34-7 in the Orange Bowl.

Wire reports from New York Tuesday night reported Nebraska was the first-choice of Gotham officials to play Miami.

"We have one of the best attractions around in Miami and Nebraska," Bob Curran, executive director of the bowl told the United Press International. "George Mira (Miami quarterback) is the most exciting player I've ever seen."

Curran emphasized, the UPI said, that since Miami accepted the bid last Saturday, no other school other than Nebraska received an invitation.

"Nebraska had the first crack at it," Curran said.

The bowl director added that the Cornhuskers are a "high-scoring team . . . and present a top quarterback in Dennis Claridge, the No. 3 draft choice of the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League."

The Associated Press quoted Curran as saying, "This is the game we wanted—and Miami wanted—all along. Regardless of what may have been reported, the only two invitations submitted were to Miami 3 weeks ago and again last Saturday night and to Nebraska."

According to Curran, the Gotham Bowl game will start at 11 a.m. (New York time; 10 a.m., Lincoln time) in an effort to give New York fans a chance to also see the Titans of the American Football League play the Houston Oilers at the Polo Grounds, starting at 2 p.m.

This will be the second annual Gotham contest. Last year Baylor whipped Utah State, 24-9, at the Polo Grounds.

It didn't take the Cornhuskers long to make up their minds about accepting the Gotham bid, once the ball got rolling Tuesday morning at Gov. Frank Morrison's press conference.

The Governor revealed that he had been contacted by Basil O'Connor, skipper of the March of Dimes which gets the profits from the Gotham, urging him to urge the Cornhuskers to accept the bid.

NU athletic director Tippy Dye acknowledged the bid, but said the decision was up the coaches and players, then the Regents and the Big 8.

Husker players enthusiastically and unanimously okayed the trip within 15 seconds after Devaney gave them 5 minutes to talk it over at a Selleck Quadrangle noon meeting.

"Go!" was the shout as the Huskers revealed their

Post-Season Honors Still Coming At NU

Post-season honors continued to arrive at the University of Nebraska Tuesday.

In addition to the Gotham Bowl bid, it was announced that Tyrone Robertson, All-Big 8 tackle, has been named to play in the Challenge Bowl at Corpus Christi, Tex., on Jan. 5.

Robertson joins 3 other Huskers who earlier received Challenge bids — guards Gary Toogood and Dwain Carlson and fullback Bill (Thunder) Thornton.

Carlson, along with halfbacks Warren Powers and Dennis Stuewe, have been named to the Blue squad for the annual Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 29. The Blue squad is coached by Don Faurot, former football coach and now athletic director at Missouri.

There is also a possibility that Thornton will be named to the West squad for the Shrine East-West game at San Francisco, it was learned.

Classified Ad Brings 'Boxers' To N.Y. Gym

New York (AP)—"Wanted: Young men between the ages of 18-25, athletically inclined who wish an opportunity to become professional heavyweight boxers."

So read the classified ad placed in newspapers in large cities across the country.

Lured to New York by it were husky young men who include a policeman, a hairdresser, a day laborer, a night club singer, college students, a truck driver with 8 children and a rich man's son. One thing they have in common is a desire to win the heavyweight title.

A syndicate headed by Gene Schoor, a New York restaurant man and writer, placed the ad. Some 175 young men responded. A dozen have come to New York, some sitting up front in the airplane and others riding all night in the back of a truck. Others will arrive after the holiday examinations in college.

Six or 8 men will be selected to make a drive for the title.

"We don't know exactly how many we will choose," Schoor said, "because we haven't seen them fight yet."

The men chosen will get a weekly salary of $158 for a year.

"This thing will cost us about $100,000 before we're through," Schoor said. "But eventually, there could be a fortune in it, for the kids and for us."

Schoor, who went to the University of Miami on a boxing scholarship (1936-39) and later coached boxing at Minnesota, CCNY and the Navy, says the syndicate is out to prove that "some pretty good decision and the wheels of acceptance began turning.

Next, the NU faculty committee on athletics flashed the green light, then Faculty Representative Dean Charles Miller began polling Big 8 officials. Tuesday night they—and the Regents—lent their backing and the word was flashed to New York for the official announcement of the Nebraska-Miami match.

The Claridge-Mira duel will pit two of the nation's top quarterbacks against each other.

Mira ranked 4th in the nation in passing with 111 completions in 234 for 1,457 yards during the regular season. He hit 10 touchdown passes and had 15 intercepted.

Claridge registered 1,199 total yards, with 370 yards rushing and 829 yards passing.

Nebraska will counter Miami's aerial circus with a

Clarification Expected Today On Status Of TV

Clarification of the television status of the Gotham Bowl game between Nebraska's Cornhuskers and the Miami Hurricanes on Dec. 15 at New York's Yankee Stadium is expected today.

Bob Curran, Gotham's executive directors, told the United Press International Tuesday night that the game would be nationally televised.

Curran reported that ABC has a two-year contract, with an option clause, with the bowl. If ABC doesn't pick up the option this morning, Curran said, then the game will be put up to the highest bidder.

Depending on this situation, there is still the possibility that the game might be piped to either Lincoln or Omaha or both via closed circuit TV.

But this would depend on negotiations between Gotham officials, NU officials and the civic auditorium officials in

Jonathan Wins Rattle; The Sheik Disqualified

The Sheik didn't make any bones about living up to his nickname — the Syrian Madman — at Pershing Auditorium Tuesday night, and it cost him the main event match with Don Leo Jonathan while some 2,000 fans cheered.

Jonathan was awarded the victory on a disqualification in the 3rd fall after a wild, mayhem-packed session that saw the Mighty Mormon battered outside the ring.

It may have been a costly victory for Jonathan, since he injured a knee during the hectic windup. The Sheik hurled him into the ringside officials' table, smashing it and causing Don Leo's knee to crash onto the concrete floor.

Jonathan writhed around for a minute or so, then grabbed a chair and started into the ring. But the Sheik — inside the ring — then wrestled the chair away and bashed Jonathan — on the floor outside the ring — on the head. That was enough for Referee Tom Novak, who halted the proceedings and raised Jonathan's limp arm while the latter was still conked out on the ringside floor.

The Sheik went to work early on Jonathan, gouging him with a pen, but Don Leo recovered to flatten the Syrian in 5:10. But Jonathan succumbed to an Arabian neck-breaker 5:40 later as The Sheik evened the match. Novak stopped the brawl after 2:40 of the 3rd fall.

Bobby Managoff bested Stan (Krusher) Kowalski in the semifinal, with the assistance of Novak. Kowalski had been pulling hair through the first two falls and Novak started pulling Krusher's to make him break choke holds. While he tugged the last time, Managoff slammed a forearm across Kowalski's jaw, then pinned him to win the 3rd fall in 4:20 and the match.

ground attack that wound up 8th in the nation (2,455 yards and a 245.5 average). The Huskers also ranked 10th in total offense with 3,475 yards and a 347.5 average.

Husker therapist George Sullivan reported that all hands—with the exception of quarterback John Faiman and guard John Dervin, both with broken legs—will be at full strength.

Devaney said the Huskers will start working today, but would have to scrimmage prior to the game.

"We will leave Friday morning (Dec. 14) and return the following Monday," Devaney said.

The Husker coach said he was delighted the boys "are so enthusiastic about this game and the game of football. It is very encouraging."

"We are happy to go," Devaney added. "The boys seem 100% enthusiastic."

Morrison Tuesday morning gave his blessing and said the Huskers would "reap a tremendous amount of favorable publicity" for Nebraska "with a good performance."

The Gotham Bowl began last year with Utah State meeting Baylor at the Polo Grounds. The combination of bitter cold weather, and the late date at which the teams were selected held the crowd down below 15,000. Only a network television contract kept the promoters from taking a total bath in red ink.

This year's game has been switched to the more desirable Yankee Stadium with the kickoff moved up to 10 a.m. CST.

"There will be national television again," a spokesman said, "but we can't say the details or which network right now."

Miami, coached by Andy Gustafson, earlier turned down a bid to the Gator Bowl.

Think-It-Over Session Lasts Only 15 Seconds

Nebraska football players jumped at a Gotham Bowl bid to avenge a season-ending loss to Oklahoma.

"We're going," smiled co-captain Dwain Carlson from Fullerton, just after the team held a brief but emphatic vote.

"Well go all out 100%," added Bill (Thunder) Thornton, the other co-captain.

This was evident when a "think-it-over among yourselves" meeting lasted just 15 seconds, ending with a roar of "Go" that echoed through the walls of Selleck Quadrangle.

The loss to Oklahoma two weeks ago, costing Nebraska a tie for the Big 8 championship, was an obvious reason for accepting.

"It's an opportunity for the seniors to get the bad taste out of our mouths," said Thornton.

"We didn't want to end like that," said Carlson.

"We can show the nation and especially the east coast that Nebraska is a good football team"

The weather, expected to be cold, wasn't a concern of the team.

All-Big 8 tackle Tyrone Robertson rubbed his huge hands together, smiled and said:

"Cold won't slow us."

The player vote was unanimous, according to Carlson and Thornton.

Halfback Rudy Johnson said the whole team wanted to play "just one more time."

Other players were sure they'd be in shape since most have not completely quit workouts following the recent campaign.

Senior halfback Dennis Stuewe said that he and 8 other seniors had been running and lifting weights since the end of the season, hoping for a bowl bid.

Newcomers, Veterans Boost Pius Cage Stock

... SEVEN LETTERMEN RETURNING

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

Lane Birkel, new Pius X basketball coach, should owe some inheritance tax.

Birkel inherits 7 lettermen, including 5 who started, from last year's team and a tall, promising group of newcomers.

He hopes to mold the two elements into a better team than last year which won 4 and lost 13.

"I feel fortunate for having so much experience back," says Birkel who came to Lincoln this fall after 3 years of coaching at Osceola and another at Oxford.

Birkel feels just as fortunate for having tall newcomers 6-3 junior Bob Chaves, 6-3½ soph Dale Churchill, 6-2 Jim Mestl and 6-1 Bill Dean.

They offer the height that hindered last year's efforts.

In pre-season workouts they have also been offering strong opposition that it is assured the Thunderbolts won't open with an all-veteran team.

"It's a healthy situation," concludes Birkel. "The young kids are untied but promising... and the veterans know they must hustle to keep ahead."

Consequently Birkel will play quite a few boys rather than a set 5, at least in the early going of the season which starts with a home game against Bellevue on Dec. 14.

The 7 lettermen are guards Bob Byington, Pat Fitzpatrick, Tom McGovern, and Bob Sawdon, all starters at the end of last year along with Jim Sullivan; and forwards Pat Ryan and Dale Champoux.

Ryan and Sullivan at 6-1 are the tallest of this group. All lettermen are seniors.

Birkel already has switched Sullivan out of the center position to forward, leaving the post scrap open to Chaves, Churchill and Mestl.

Also in the Thunderbolt picture are juniors Chris Wickham and Mike Zeigler and seniors Dave Woods and Jim Sutura.

The juniors were ramrods on a successful reserve team a year ago.

A scheduled home game with Southeast on Jan. 19 will be played at Pershing Auditorium to accommodate more fans.

The new coach will use a varied offense but admits to favoring a slower game in the past and the defense will be predominantly man-to-man.

OSU Ousts Speegle As Football Mentor

Stillwater, Okla. (P)—Oklahoma State University officials removed Cliff Speegle Tuesday as football coach but said he will be offered another job under the same terms as his present $15,000 a year contract.

Speegle, who just finished his 8th season as head coach here, has a year to go on his contract. There were indications he would be named intramural sports director if he remains at OSU.

Oliver S. Willham, OSU president, announced that Speegle's contract had been terminated on his recommendation and that of the school's athletic cabinet. He said the Oklahoma board of regents for A&M colleges approved the action, presumably in a telephone poll during or following a 5-hour conference between Willham and the athletic cabinet Monday afternoon and night.

Willham said there had been no decision regarding a successor to Speegle.

When asked whether the present staff of football assistants would be retained, Athletic Director Henry Iba said:

"That will have to be worked out."

Iba added that OSU officials had no one in mind at present for the head coach's job.

Willham said he recommended to the regents "that Mr. Speegle be relieved of his duties as head football coach and that he be reassigned to other duties in keeping with his academic rank until expiration of his present contract with no change in salary."

Gov. Frank Morrison was pleased that University of Nebraska football players voted to play in the Gotham Bowl in New York City on Dec. 15.

When informed of the move, he replied, "Good."

"This is a great opportunity for Nebraska to play one of the outstanding teams of the country—Miami University of Florida—in view of the metropolitan press and sports-writers and I know they will reflect credit on this state," he said.

Asked why he was contacted by bowl officials seeking to learn if Nebraska would accept the bid, Morrison answered, "I don't know, probably because I am governor."

Mexicans Nab Davis Cup Berth

Madras, India (P)—Brilliant Rafael Osuna completed a two-day 5-set victory over India's Ramanathan Krishnan and then teamed with Antonio Palafox Tuesday for a doubles triumph that sent Mexico into the Davis Cup challenge round for the first time ever.

The Mexicans clinched the interzone final, 3-0, and turned Wednesday's final two singles matches into a mere formality.

After a brief vacation in Hong Kong and New Zealand, the Mexican team will go to Brisbane to face Australia for the cup Dec. 26-28.

Resuming his match with Krishnan, which was halted Monday at 6-6 in the 4th set, Osuna, 24-year-old student at the University of Southern California, squeezed out a triumph in an incident-marked match 8-6, 2-6, 7-5, 6-8, 6-4.

Then he and Palafox, holders of the Wimbledon and American doubles titles, got the scare of their lives from the patchwork Indian team of Joydeep Mukerjee and Primit Lal before pulling through to victory 10-8, 12-10, 6-4.

NORFOLK JC WILL LEAVE NEBR. LOOP

Norfolk (UPI)—The Norfolk Board of Education voted Monday night to remove Norfolk Junior College from the 4-JC Conference and announced plans for the school to join a new league being formed which would include Norfolk JC, Worthington, Minn., and 5 Iowa colleges—Mason City JC; Ellsworth JC; Iowa Falls; Estherville JC; Fort Dodge JC; Wordorf JC; at Forrest City; and Centerville JC.

The new league, as yet unnamed, goes into operation in 1964.

Norfolk school superintendent F. Don MacLay said Norfolk JC was now forced to make long trips to play McCook and Scottsbluff and also said the school here has found competition too steep in recent years since McCook and Scottsbluff, he said, have been emphasizing football.

MacLay said Norfolk will continue to play basketball against 4-JC conference teams.

INCREDIBLE!

As automobile men might say, "This is the hottest engine on the market!" The thrill of assembling this model-of-many parts (over 350 to be exact) is matched only by the excitement of pushing the starter buttons on the finished model and watching it operate. It does everything but burn oil!

Sealed to one-fourth actual size, THE VISIBLE V-8 is molded in 4 colors, including "clear" so that functioning parts can be observed. No painting! Comes completely with powerful miniature motor, all necessary metal parts and an authoritative "tech manual". THE VISIBLE V-8 is the perfect father and son hobby project! Price $10.95.

2,000 Lights, New Designs Added To Minden's Display

... ANNUAL PAGEANT WILL BE PRESENTED DEC. 9, 16

Minden — Festivities which annually highlight the Yuletide season will begin in Minden soon, marking nearly a half century in which this south central Nebraska city has laid claim to the title of "The Christmas City."

Spokesmen have announced that the religious pageant, "The Light of the World," will be presented Sunday evening, Dec. 9, at 7 p.m. and again the evening of Sunday, Dec. 16, at the same hour.

The city's fabulous lighting display, described as bigger and better than ever, will be turned on at the conclusion of the pageant on Dec. 9, and will be on each evening during the holiday season through Jan. 1.

'62 Innovation
Clayton Emal, Minden city commissioner, reports that some 2,000 lights and several new designs have been added

Grand Island Non-Resident Students Out

Grand Island — The Grand Island school board voted to exclude non-resident students from Grand Island public schools beginning September, 1963.

Grand Island High School accepts the largest number of tuition students of any high school in the state, local sources said. More than 300 had been expected next fall. The board said it acted because of an overcrowding. The load of tuition students probably would force split sessions in schools here next fall, the board said.

The school board invited districts now sending tuition students to Grand Island schools to join the Grand Island school district. Two meetings have been held with officials of these districts in the last week to discuss school district reorganization.

Second Degree Charge Is Filed Against Duncan

North Platte — Deputy Lincoln County Attorney Don Lowe has filed a charge of second degree murder against Henry T. Duncan, 50, North Platte, in the death of Jesse Junior Crabtree, 33, of Rome, Ga.

Crabtree's body was found along a road west of North Platte last Wednesday. He had been shot with a .22 caliber rifle, authorities said.

Police said Duncan related that he and Crabtree had scuffled over a rifle which Duncan had borrowed. Duncan told officers that Crabtree had walked away after the weapon accidentally discharged.

Harvest Virtually Completed; Wheat Is In Good Condition

The season's harvest of Nebraska crops is virtually completed, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

Only an occasional field of corn and sorghum remains to be reaped, according to the weekly crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

"Mild, dry fall weather favored rapid progress and harvest reached the windup stage much earlier than usual," the division said.

Harvest losses have been light compared with recent years, with less fallen grain on the ground and less hand cleaning activity than usual.

Winter wheat is in good condition and continues to make some growth. The crop in southwestern counties has benefited from recent rains but topsoil moisture is short in other areas.

"The unusual rank growth of the wheat and lack of fall rainfall has resulted in depleted moisture reserves in

Beverage Council Sets $5,000 Goal For Handicapped

Columbus — The Nebraska Licensed Beverage Council Tuesday set a goal of $5,000 for its 1963 campaign to aid Nebraska's handicapped children.

The collection last year raised $3,300, which was used to provide assistance for the Hattie B. Monroe Home in Omaha and the North Platte Opportunity Center.

At Tuesday's quarterly meeting the board was authorized to extend negotiations to the Beatrice State Home to see what assistance can be given there.

Chris Sideris of Omaha, chairman of the board and of the fund raising campaign, said Storz Brewery is donating canisters which are to be placed at retail outlets throughout the state. The council will administer the fund without deduction of expense so every cent contributed will go to aid the handicapped children.

The past year's gifts included a washer-dryer for the North Platte Opportunity Center and a station wagon for the Hattie B. Monroe Home.

Crash Claims George Vacha

Norfolk — George Vacha, 21, of West Point, critically injured the night of Nov. 25 in a two-car crash at Norfolk, died in a Norfolk hospital of multiple injuries.

His death brought to 269 Nebraska's 1962 traffic death toll compared with 302 on the same date a year ago.

Five others injured in the crash are recovering, 4 of them still hospitalized. Vacha is survived by his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vacha, Clarkson; and two brothers.

Midwest Poultry Industry Sleeping Giant-Dr. Adams

Omaha — Dr. John L. Adams, chairman of the University of Nebraska Department of Poultry Husbandry, declared Tuesday the midwest poultry industry is "a sleeping giant" in need of a "wake-up pill."

Dr. Adams said in an address to the North Central States Poultry and Egg Exposition and Conference that egg production in the north central states dropped from 48.2% in 1950 to 40.6% of the nation's eggs in 1960.

"Eggs can be produced in the midwest at a lower cost than anywhere in the United States," he said. "The midwest — certainly Iowa and Nebraska — has access to excellent breeding stock, a plentiful supply of low-cost feed and a backlog of technical know-how."

Minden's first lighting display was fashioned in 1915 by the late J. H. Haws, who served for many years as city light commissioner. Emal, present commissioner, has carried out the project since 1952. The pageant script was written by the Rev. A. W. Johnson, now of Columbus, and Director Morey.

After sponsoring Christmas home decorating shows in 1960 and 1961, the Minden Garden Club again will join in co-sponsoring a home decorating contest this year, along with the Minden Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, and city.

Christmas City spokesmen expect this project to provide interesting sidelights for holiday visitors to Minden. Another attraction will be tours at the Harold Warp Pioneer Village, which will be open throughout the holiday season.

Improvements will be noted in pageant lighting arrangements, costuming and sets for this year's production. Planners report that community co-operation has again made it possible to renovate the pageant project, with the Junior Chamber of Commerce refurbishing the stage properties and the Jaycee wives making new costumes for some of the scenes.

The Jaycees again will have charge of co-ordinating elements involved in the production. Other organizations assisting in various ways with the staging of the pageant are the Chamber of Commerce, which underwrites a major part of the expense; the American Legion, which has charge of traffic control during pageant nights; school groups, city employees and police officers, and other individual citizens who take active parts in the pageant cast and backstage work.

500 Involved

C. J. Morey, director of the pageant, and Harold Pedley, assistant director, estimate that about 500 persons are involved in the many tasks of assembling properties, staging and producing the pageant. Music director and advisor for the production, which is tape recorded and staged simultaneously on all 4 sides of Minden's Courthouse square, is Don Helzer, high school music instructor.

'Feeler' Letter Asks Federal Mosquito Aid

A "feeler" letter has been sent to the U.S. Public Health Service to ask about the availability of federal funds for an engineering and cost study for long-range permanent control of Lincoln's mosquito problem.

At a Tuesday night meeting of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Board, Dr. George Underwood told board members he had sent the letter after participating in a recent bi-regional PHS conference in Norman, Okla.

The purpose of the conference, he said, was to discuss PHS funds available for pure research and project grants in the field of public health. He added:

"However, in order to obtain such a grant, the project must cover some subject which will be good and of benefit to the country as a whole or to the world as a whole."

"They won't give you money just to clean up your own backyard."

Dr. Underwood informed the group that the mosquito study could be eligible as an environmental health research project and "could be a worthwhile thing for all cities in the country to use in the areas of urban renewal, Interstate highways and the possible accompanying mosquito problems."

Should a favorable reply be obtained from PHS, Dr. Underwood said an official request would be gotten up, estimating project cost, areas to be included, and other specific details, and sent to them. He explained:

"Our studies so far have shown that practically 90% of our mosquito problems here are man-made. This is a problem of cleaning up after your own work."

Old Channel
Cited as general problem areas were waste banks on the new Salt Creek channel constructed by the now dissolved Sanitary District and the abandoned old channel left without filling or drainage, areas where dirt had been piled or improper drainage existed along the Interstate 80, and improperly dug storm sewers.

"Our proposed study would be an engineering study essentially," Dr. Underwood said, "but the big job is deciding what you're going to do and how and where you are going to do it."

Board members also examined a 15-page pamphlet prepared by the department which will help Lincolinites clean up any mosquito breeding areas around their own property.

The pamphlet is free and can be obtained at the Health Department office.

ALL HOPE OF BAN BY JAN. 1 GONE

... Reds Won't Budge

Geneva — The Soviet Union Tuesday killed all Western hopes that an emergency nuclear test ban agreement could be rushed into operation by the end of the year.

Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told a subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference "there will never be any agreement" so long as the West insists on inspection of suspicious underground disturbances.

For their part, U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean and British Minister of State Joseph B. Godber reiterated that a quota of on-site inspections must be included in any system ending tests.

Dean declared the installation of black boxes—robotic seismic detectors—would not abolish the need for such inspections or completely replace manned control posts.

He said a network of the boxes, if made tamper proof, would have some auxiliary value in recording earth disturbances. But he challenged Tsarapkin's claim that such a network, plus existing national detection systems, would eliminate the need for on-site inspections.

Then in 1954 she and Mr. Prouty and family moved to Scottsdale, where they have since resided.

She is survived by her husband; son, Harry L. at home; daughters, Mrs. John Castle Jr. and Mrs. Anthony Orlandi, both of Scottsdale; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Livingston of Phoenix.
